Nazi Forces Batter Fruitlessly Against Stiffened Red Resistance

GERMANS ARE USING 700 YEAR OLD PLAN

Soviet Defenses Costing Attacking Germans Increasingly Heavy Losses

By JAMES E. BROWN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, July 31.—Using a modernized version of tactics which led to disaster for another invading German army just 700 years ago, Nazi forces along the lower Don battered fruitlessly against stiffened Soviet resistance before the great industrial city of Stalingrad today.

German Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock brought up great new reinforcements southwest of Klatskaya, where 2,000 enemy troops have been killed in a series of futile assaults within the last few hours.

In his attempts to break through the Don River opposite Stalingrad, Von Bock adopted the tactics of a predecessor—the Grand Master of the Teutonic Order of Knights who in the year 1242 after a long series of unbroken successes was soundly beaten by Russian troops under Alexander Nevsky at Lake Peipus.

Second Front 'Zero' Hour Is Believed Near

Arrival Of More U. S. Air Officers In England Seen As Portent

MORE CANADIAN TROOPS ARRIVE

Other Incidents Seem To Point To Early "Second Front" Action

By HUGO SPECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Military observers today viewed a series of events in London and Washington as concrete evidence that the "zero" hour is approaching for opening of a second front by the United Nations.

Principal of these events was the arrival in London of no less than four high ranking officers of the American Air Forces. Their rank alone indicates the high significance which might be placed on their presence in London.

They are Brig. Gen. Frank D. Hunter, commanding fighters, Brig. Gen. Asa N. Duncan, chief of staff of the army air force; Brig. Gen. Robert C. Candee, commanding ground forces, and Maj. Gen. W. H. Frank, commanding the service corps.

Military authorities explained their presence in London as "logical" in the development and expansion of the American air forces in the European theater.

Lighthouse At Sandy Hook To Be Extinguished

(International News Service)

FORT HANCOCK, N. J., July 31.—The "light which never failed" for almost 178 years will be extinguished for the duration of the war.

Back in 1764, long before John Hancock affixed his signature to the Declaration of Independence, the lighthouse on Sandy Hook sent its first rays flashing into the darkness of night.

Ever since, except for a brief period during the Revolutionary War, its comforting beacon has been sought and found by mariners from the seven seas.

Now, because of the proximity of Fort Hancock, the light was ordered out yesterday by Brig. Gen. Philip S. Gage, commander of the defenses of New York harbor.

Seven Jap Planes Are Brought Down In Raid On China

American Fliers Bring Down Enemy Planes In Hunan Province

(International News Service)

CHUNGKING, July 31.—The Japanese lost a total of seven planes in two attacks yesterday on the Allied airdrome at Hengyang, Hunan province, United States army headquarters in China disclosed today.

Communique No. 26 issued by Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell said that four bombers had been shot down by American fliers the first of two attempted attacks on Hengyang. The Japs attempted a second ttack and lost three fighter planes. The bombers never reached Hengyang.

A communique yesterday, issued immediately after the first raid, said that three bombers had been brought down, two by Major John E. Allison, the pilot who once flew Harry Hopkins to Moscow, and one by Captain Albert J. Baumler. Subsequent reports showed, however, that Capt. Baumler also had accounted for two bombers.

New Aircraft Carrier Ready For Launching

U. S. S. Essex, 25,000 Ton Aircraft Carrier To Slide Down Ways Today

By WILLIAM THEIS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NORFOLK, Va., July 31.—The U.S.S. Essex, a 25,000-ton token of America's projected strength in aircraft carriers and the first such fighting vessel launched since Pearl Harbor, goes down the ways at Newport News today.

The first of a new carrier class bearing her name, the Essex will slide into the James river without benefit of formal speeches or fanfare. Commander Albert E. Stone, chaplain of the Norfolk Navy Yard will deliver the invocation while Mrs. Artemus L. Gates, wife of the assistant Secretary of Navy for Air will act as sponsor for the giant vessel.

Further in keeping with the wartime spirit of the occasion, other work in the yard of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, where the Essex keel was laid 15 months and three days ago, was not to be interrupted.

While wartime necessity cloaks many construction details of this fourth Essex in secrecy, naval publications say she will have at least 16 five-inch guns and carry from 75 to 80 planes. She is smaller than the Lexington, lost in the Coral sea battle, and Saratoga—both of 33,000 tons—but larger than either the Enterprise or Hornet, carriers displacing about 20,000 tons. The Yorktown, 20,000 tons, was put out of action at Midway.

Passenger Trains Again Operating On Renovo Branch

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., July 31.—Passenger trains were operating again today on the Renovo Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, after being suspended since July 18, when flash flood waters washed out track and bridges from Wilcox to Sinnemahoning.

A Philadelphia to Erie passenger train was the first to pass through the flood region. Three other trains were scheduled to resume regular service today. Officials added, however, that trains will probably be on "slow" orders, as an extra safeguard against any possible accidents on the restored roadbed.

Ore trains were expected to resume service today also

South Croton Extension To Be Paved Now

Route Across Rosena Site To Be Improved By State Highway Department

STATE STREET HILL ALSO TO BE PAVED

John Z. Street, city engineer, today reported that the state highway department has decided to pave South Croton avenue extension and pave the widened portion of State street.

The city will begin installing curbs and a drainage system Wednesday in South Croton avenue extension (across Rosena site) and when completed the state will pave the cartway to a 46-foot width.

City employes now are at work in State street. However, the WPA will provide employes for the state highway's paving which may add much to the safety of traffic during winter months.

In time the pole projecting into the street at the top of the south side of State street hill will be removed, it was reported by the city engineer recently.

By LOWELL BENNETT

Last evening's departure was somewhat delayed, the train being a little behind schedule. Later this morning ceremonies were conducted for five marines.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The United States Supreme Court today literally doomed seven of the eight Nazi saboteurs to death by upholding President Roosevelt's wartime power to try them before a special military commission.

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The United States Supreme Court, in history-making verdict, today upheld President Roosevelt's wartime powers by denying writs of habeas corpus to seven Nazi saboteurs on trial for their lives before a military commission.

The high court ruled the Nazis were being tried in a constitutional manner before the commission that the president created under his wartime powers.

As a result, the Nazi's trial will be completed before the jury of seven Army generals, with only closing arguments to be heard before an expected verdict of death by hanging or the firing squad.

More Turmoil Over Gas Rationing

Officials Not In Agreement

Ickes Says No Need For Extending East Coast Rationing System

FORMAL STATEMENT WRITTEN, NOT ISSUED

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Official Washington again was in a turmoil today over the issue of nation-wide gasoline rationing as the Office of War Information strove mightily to stem the tide of confusion.

Oil Co-ordinator Harold L. Ickes told a press conference that there was no necessity for extending the east coast's rationing program to the rest of the country, while Undersecretary of War Patterson urged the drastic step to save rubber.

Statement Withheld

After the two officials had spoken Price Administrator Leon Henderson, long an advocate of nation-wide gasoline rationing, prepared a statement on the controversial topic, but it was withheld from the press by Elmer Davis' Office of War Information.

OPA spokesmen described Henderson's statement as "strong", but not too vitriolic, and said that it "took issue" with Ickes, who had assailed Joel Dean, OPA fuel rationing chief, for endorsing national rationing as a means of alleviating the eastern petroleum shortage.

"It absolutely would not help the east coast one bit," Ickes said.

Henderson's three-page statement was said to be in defense of Dean's position. It was taken to OWI headquarters by two members of OPA'S information staff, Luther Reed and Jay Walz.

Reed conferred with Robert Horton, director of the OWI News Bureau, for three-quarters of an hour while newsmen waited. Finally, Horton informed the newspapermen:

"There will be no statement."

FIVE MASS BOMBING RAIDS ON NAZI CITIES COST BRITAIN $96,000,000

were targets of 1,000-plane raids, and Hamburg was subject to two attacks with larges forces of several hundred planes.

Estimates of damage to the Reich cities were based on photographs of the ruined areas of the cities, known facts concerning demolished plants and reports reaching the British intelligence from various sources. The estimate of two billion dollars was regarded as highly conservative.

War Production Cut

But it was pointed out that the purpose of the raids was not wanton and indiscriminate destruction of German property, but the crippling of key industries in the Nazi war machine.

German war production has been cut at least 20 per cent as a result of the raids, according to reliable estimates.

No effort has been made to compile the costs or the damage inflicted by the lighter raids over Germany, the sorties of single bombers over the Reich in daylight and the almost daily bomber and fighter raids on the French coast and the Lowlands.

An air ministry spokesman pointed out that in addition to the direct damage done to the Nazi industrial machine, the mass raids and the cumulative effect of the daily poundings on a less ambitious scale are steadily preparing the ground for invasion.

Also valuable aid is being extended to Russia as the Allies prepare to launch an invasion of the continent, he added.

"Our air forces are holding nearly half of the German fighter force in western Europe," he declared. "At least 1,500,000 anti-aircraft gunners, trained air raid precautions experts and other technicians are chained down all over Europe to guard against our bombing attacks which may strike anywhere.

"By adding material destruction to moral disillusionment we have established an aerial second front which is preparing the way for an armed invasion."

He was followed by C. J. William Gustafson, foreman of the press room, who paid tribute to Mr. Rentz' leadership over the years. Mrs. James T. ALLIED FLIERS BLAST JAPANESE TRANSPORT in United Nations territory, at Port Moresby, Horn island on the northeast tip of Australia, and at Port Hedland, 300 miles southwest of Broome.

Five Direct Hits

Five direct hits crashed down upon the transport discovered 100 miles off the northeast coast of New Guinea accompanied by a destroyer escort. The transport, a converted freighter, was left in flames which returning fliers said were visible for 30 miles. The blasting of this transport brought to five the total of Japanese ships sunk or damaged since the enemy made landings more than a week ago near Buna, Papua. Previously three transports and a destroyer were hit from the air.

Anti-aircraft batteries aboard the destroyer were silenced by United Nations airmen who swooped down low over the warship and opened their machine guns.

Heavy Darwin Raid

The raid by the 48 Japanese planes on Darwin was the heaviest attack on that Allied port since an initial enemy assault was made last February. The squadron consisted of 27 bombers and 21 fighters.

Allied defenders were credited with performing a brilliant feat of interception in bringing down seven of the fighters and two bombers.

One United Nations plane was lost.

Gen. MacArthur's communique said that reconnaissance fliers had shot down another Japanese fighter and probably destroyed a second. Three Allied planes were said to be missing at the conclusion of the mission.

At Port Moresby, the communique said, three Jap bombers made a light and ineffective attack. The raiders came over at night. When searchlight batteries and anti-aircraft guns went into action they fled before Allied fighters could intercept them.

We might build ships faster than subs can sink them, but that is still defensive thinking and it can't win a war.

R. A F. BOMBERS BLAST TARGETS AT BOULOGNE

Birmingham, industrial city in the west midlands, had been bombed for the third time in four days. Earlier it was asserted British armament works had been attacked.)

At least seven of the Luftwaffe craft were shot down by British night fighters and anti-aircraft batteries. An eighth German plane was destroyed near its base in France.

More Widespread

The German raids were lighter but more widespread than the attacks the night before. The west midlands appeared to be the main objective but no major fires were reported to have been started from incendiary bombs dropped by the Nazis.

(The Berlin radio quoted the official news agency, DNB, as asserting that the Luftwaffe had dropped explosives and incendiary bombs on British armament works.)

German planes came in over the east coast after crossing the channel and flew inland to the midlands, west midlands and the west of England. Some raiders were reported over south England.

In most instances fire bombs were dropped but some localities felt the crash of high explosives. One raider over a west midlands town swooped down to machine-gun the streets. There were three casualties.

Damage In South England

Some damage, including two small fires, and casualties were inflicted in a town in south England.

London had its 586th and 587th alarms. No bombs were dropped on the city.

Shortly after the all clear signal had been given following the first alarm aircraft were heard near the capital and anti-aircraft batteries opened up a heavy barrage.

The anti-aircraft guns were still blasting away when the second alarm was sounded. The barrage was sustained and the outskirts of the city were illuminated by the beams of searchlights. The raiders were clearly audible and their passage through the sky was checked by shell bursts. The cannonade from British guns rumbled throughout the capital like thunder. It was the heaviest barrage heard in the city for months.

The attacks on England began after a considerable force of British fighters raided German-held bases in occupied France throughout the evening.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS TRIAL BY COMMISSION

nounced the decision and stated that a full opinion of the court will be drafted and filed later.

In a brief statement, the high court said:

"The motions for leave to file petitions for writs of habeas corpus are denied.

"The orders of the district court are affirmed. The mandates are directed to issue forthwith."

Court Decision

In its statement, the Supreme court also stated:

"The court upholds:

"1. That the charges against the petitioners on which they are being tried by military commission appointed by the order of the President on July 2, 1942, allege an offense or offenses which the President is authorized to order trial before a military commission.

"2. That the military commission was lawfully constituted.

"3. That petitioners are held in lawful custody, for trial before the military commission and have not shown cause for being discharged by writ of habeas corpus."

It was at this point that the court made its ruling that "the motion for leave to file petition for writs of habeas corpus are denied."

Attorney General Francis Biddle, who argued the government case before the high court, smiled with satisfaction when the ruling was announced by Chief Justice Stone in solemn tones.

"I think arguments can be completed before the commission today and I don't think it will take the commission long to act," said Biddle.

He announced papers in the case should reach President Roosevelt early next week.

LONDON, July 31.—The Berlin radio, according to Reuters, today broadcast a special communique from the German high command in which it was claimed that five ships totalling 41,000 tons had been sunk by submarines.

LONDON, July 31.—Nazi authorities handed out another piece of propaganda today in an attempt to show that the German army in Western Europe is prepared to cope with the opening of a second front.

The Berlin correspondent of the Basle National Zeitung, Reuters said, reported to his paper that he had been told between 50 and 120 German divisions were massed along the invasion coast to meet any United Nations drive.

LONDON, July 31.—Reuters today reported a broadcast by the Vichy radio in which it was asserted that German forces had occupied Salsk, 20 miles south of Proletarskaya, virtually cutting Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's armies in two.

Proletarskaya, which the Germans claimed to have captured yesterday, is on the Stalingrad-Krasnograd railway about midway between the two cities.

LONDON, July 31.—Light British naval forces were believed to have engaged Nazi E-boats in the Dover Straits this morning off the southeast coast of England.

Rapid light gunfire flashes were seen and explosions were heard well out in the channel. At the conclusion of the action it appeared that the Germans withdrew to the French coast.

CHUNGKING, July 31.—The Japanese are reported to have salvaged forty ships damaged and wrecked in the harbor of Hong Kong during the siege of the Crown colony, a Chinese military spokesman declared today. The salvaged vessels, included warships and cargo boats, are being repaired for service, he said.

As the Japanese armies sweep through North China villages, Nipponese agents are following in their wake rounding up scrap metal and seizing wheat crops, the spokesman said.

BERLIN, July 31.—(By Official German Wireless)—The German Wireless)—The German high command claimed today that Nazi bomber attacked "several" airdromes near Cairo last night and that heavy bombs were dropped.

Big fires were claimed to have been started in sheds and fuel depots and direct hits scored on grounded planes.

ROME, July 31.—(By Official Italian Wireless)—The Italian high command issued a communique today claiming that new British thrusts south of El Alamein in Egypt have been repulsed.

SECOND FRONT 'ZERO' HOUR IS BELIEVED NEAR

and British Air Commander Harris ominously warning Germans that British and American planes will bomb every city in the country, the arrival of the American air forces commanders in London takes on a more than ordinary meaning.

With the arrival of the American officers, it was announced that a large contingent of Canadian troops, including technicians and air force units has arrived safely in a British port.

Concurrently, it was pointed out that Sir Stafford Cripps again reaffirmed the pledge of the British government in the House of Commons that Britain will invade the European continent. Following this pledge, members of the House of Commons in a secret session listened to what was termed a "frank statement" on the war situation by Soviet ambassador Maisky.

Further, Soviet Ambassador Litvinoff in Washington made a hurried call at the White House, presumably to deliver a message from the Kremlin. Litvinoff declined to say anything other than "the situation is unchanged". Observes saw a direct connection however between the almost simultaneous moves of the Russian ambassadors in Washington and in London.

There is no proof that all thinking is done by the brain cells. If results are evidence, you can't exclude the gall sac.

When men write about women's faults, or vice versa, it proves nothing except that a lot of writers got gyped.

SOVIET DEFENDERS STANDING FIRM IN STALINGRAD AREA

Knights in helmets and full mail were used to protect foot soldiers in those ancient days, Von Bock utilized large numbers of tanks assembled in "V" formation, with infantry marching within the protecting triangle.

The Russian positions have now held unbroken, for seven days against these incessant wedge attacks. In theory, the tank wedge breaks through defenses and then spreads out to hit the Soviet flanks while the infantry consolidates positions gained.

Thus far the attacks have been fruitless and each has cost Von Bock heavily in men and materials.

German planes attempted to bomb river crossings in the Don Region opposite Stalingrad used by the Soviets for transportation of supplies. Soviet intercepter and fighter planes broke up the raiding formations.

Large Scale Battle

A large scale battleof an exceptionally fierce character continued throughout the Don bend. The enemy pushed ahead in some sectors, but the generally improved position of the Russian army was reflected by the newspaper Red Star, which said:

"Yesterday military operations in the south again proved that where defense is well orginized and where good cooperation of all arms is secured, the enemy is forced to halt his offensive."

A total of 120 German tanks were destroyed in the battling around Klatskava, 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, large industrial city on the Volga.

The strengthened opposition of the Soviet forces also succeeded in repelling the Nazis at several points south and southeast of Bataisk, below Rostov where the Germans have scored their deepest penetration into the Caucasus

Advance On One Sector

However, the high command admitted that the Germans had managed to advance "somewhat" on one sector of the blazing Bataisk front.

Heavy fighting on the four sectors of the Don front—Voronezh, Tsimlyansk, south and southeast of Bataisk, and southwest of Klatskaya—raged throughout the night, the noon communique said.

"In the Vonorezh area west of the city the Germans attempted to attack but were repulsed," the high command reported.

A supplement said:

"Southwest of Klatskaya our troops repelled enemy attacks, inflicting heavy losses and wiping out 2,000 Germans and 120 tanks.

"South and southeast of Bataisk fierce tank and infantry attacks were repelled. On one sector the Germans succeeded in advancing somewhat."

Defenders Stand Firm

The Russian defenders of the Don River appeared to be standing firm on all fronts save Bataisk and in some sectors, mainly around Klatskaya and Tsimlyansk, they lunged back in force to drive the Nazis from advanced positions.

The high command said that in addition to repelling assaults around Klatskaya the Red army also had pressed the Germans back in some areas.

The severe battles throughout the Don region increased in intensity as the Russians, ordered by Premier Josef Stalin to give no more ground, made a determined effort to stem the Nazis tide which threatens to overrun the Caucasus.

Several hundred Germans were reported annihilated when the Russian opposition around Klatskaya stiffered. Nine tanks were destroyed in the battling and swarms of Soviet fighter planes shot down 14 Nazi Luftwaffe snips.

In the Tsimlyansk area, midway between fallen Rostov and Stalingrad to the northeast, the high command said, Soviet tanks and infantry forces pierced German positions. Here 11 tanks and 18 large guns were destroyed.

But the force of the Nazi blows around Tsimlyansk was by no means dented through the stern Soviet action. The high command said that the Germans were continuing persistent attempts to break through to the south and were throwing in fresh tank and infantry units almost continually. The southward Nazi thrust is aimed at severing the the important Stalingrad-Rostov railway 25 miles below the river.

A total of 1,500 Germans were said to have been killed in the Tsimlyansk fighting.

Let's hope the F. B. I. doesn't find too many spies. The trials might tie up all of our generals for the duration.

RUINS AS SEEN BY U. S. AMBASSADOR

WHEN war comes, it means that all diplomatic efforts at peaceful adjustment have failed. The diplomat retires, his function ended. The soldier takes command.

Few persons realize how great is the disillusionment and pain of those who have striven for peace, when their efforts prove vain. There were intimations of how Cordell Hull felt when his patient, honest striving to keep peace culminated in treacherous, lethal contempt at Pearl Harbor. But while Mr. Hull was laboring at Washington, the United States ambassador to Japan was performing an even more arduous job, and under even greater discouragement, on the other side of the Pacific.

Joseph Clark Grew is a career diplomat, who has spent his entire life in foreign service. A man of highest character and attainments, brave and sensitive, he served at Tokyo just a few weeks short of a decade. Now he has arrived at Portuguese East Africa, en route home with other American repatriates. Mr. Grew makes public his "farewell message" to members of his staff interned with him, who got together on Memorial Day to sing American songs.

Here is what the former ambassador to Japan said:

"I myself, during these last months, have had plenty of time to survey the ruins of a life's work, as an architect might regard, after an earthquake and fire, the ruins of a great building he had conceived and endeavored to erect with a solidarity that might perhaps permanently withstand the elements.

"Alas! the castle has crumbled about us. It is not a happy vision."

The wreckage of peace is one of the unhappiest sights upon which a diplomat can gaze. And now a repatriated correspondent reveals that Japanese militarists held up President Roosevelt's last-minute appeal to Emperor Hirohito for twelve hours, making it impossible for Ambassador Grew to see the emperor before Pearl Harbor was attacked and war declared.

What Mr. Grew saw was more than the ruin of his life work. He saw the ruins of the honor of an empire.

ANOTHER TREASURY RAID?

Heavy losses in gasoline tax revenues are being experienced in the seventeen states where rationing is in effect. A heavy drop in car registrations is anticipated next year, if the present quotas are maintained. This will mean still further depleted revenue.

A partial offset is provided by cuts in road maintenance and elimination of new construction excepting that having war usefulness. The offset may not be enough to avert embarrassment for those that have been using from 30 to 45 per cent of their gasoline taxes for debt service. Five such states are within the gasoline rationed area.

State fiscal authorities are expressing concern as to how to solve the problem, but some, seeking the easiest way, have their eyes turned toward Washington. Their hopes are pinned to a bill introduced by Senator Russell of Georgia. It directs the Secretary of the Treasury to determine the revenue losses of the states with a view to reimbursement.

To give effect to his plans would, of course, necessitate an appropriations bill originating in the House, but the Russell bill will do to feel out those states where gasoline is not rationed. A number of them may be expected to fall in line, for car and tire conservation has cut into their gasoline returns. Thus there is in the making another possible raid on the Treasury.

'WAR OF NERVES' WORRYING NAZIS

That Allied discussions concerning the creation of a second front in Europe are making the Germans jittery is indicated in reports from Switzerland that Field Marshal von Rundstedt, in command of Nazi forces facing the British across the Channel and the North Sea, is revising and strengthening his defenses.

The "war of nerves" that is said to be making itself felt in Germany is aided in no small degree by the R.A.F.'s renewed battering of Nazi ports and industrial centres. The second bombing attack on Hamburg in three nights undoubtedly was aimed, in considerable part, at the submarine-building industry in the great German port area.

Assertions that Hitler has sent units of the "Elite Guard" from the Russian front to France suggest a marked stepping-up of Nazi defense measures, not only to meet a possible British-American invasion, but to deal with potential rebellion in the occupied countries.

The Allied "nerve war" thus appears to have its uses. But the question arises whether there will ever be a better time than the present for attempting a strong drive against the Nazis in the West. If the Allies are not prepared to try invasion, they should lose no time in smashing at Germany from the air even harder and certainly more often than they have thus far.

PARALYZED FACTORIES

It was stated recently by Philip D. Reed of the War Production board that about 24,000 small manufacturing concerns in this country would have to shut down before October. A lot of them are already closed or closing.

These, as Mr. Reed explained, are industries that find it difficult or impossible to contribute to the war materials program as at present constituted. Nobody seems particularly to blame, but it is a melancholy situation. A corporation for the help of "the smaller war plants" set up by congress, through the War Production board, can help small manufacturers and business men only to a limited extent.

These, it should be understood, are not "lame duck industries" in the ordinary sense. They are in trouble for not fault of their own. They are war victims. Some of them, no doubt, could still be used for war production of some kind. Many of them, as Congressman Patman of Texas has said, can be saved from present disaster, and for future usefulness, by an opportunity to borrow money at reasonable rates on their frozen inventories. They will be ready to resume work when the war is over. The country will then need their production, there will be an immense amount of reconstruction and replacement to handle.

Buy more war bonds and give the Axis the axe.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PARENTS WHO PAMPER CHILDREN

Some grown-up people never have become adults. It is in the kind, considerate home, with parents who have been over-indulgent with their children, or who have made undue sacrifices for them, where we find most frequently the child who has never learned to take care of himself.

This child has had too much mothering, too much help from home. He may never have had the privilege nor urge to struggle.

You and I know some young married couples who are still fed and clothed and sheltered by their parents.

Parents at Fault

Many a young man never marries just because he has not learned to go it alone and to put himself in the position of one providing for a family first. He always has had all his wants supplied. A lot of them have had practically all the urge to fit themselves for being useful taken away from them by their own parents.

Some, too, to please their parents, have gone through high school, but could not muster up the courage to break away from their loved ones long enough to go to college or to get a job away from home.

Suppose such a child gets a job near home, and earns a reasonably good wage. He may spend it all, even calling on his parents to supplement it. (Young women as well as young men are often in this class.) It may never occur to him to pay room rent or board, or even to buy his clothes.

Don't Pamper Children

He may have no wish to marry, for he dreads to leave his home. If he does, he settles down as near his parents' roof as possible. He learns, no doubt, to expect his mother to help care for his babies and even to assist his wife in her housework.

Many a grandmother wears herself out caring for her grandchildren.

A certain university graduate I know is on a modest salary, but he lives beyond it. His father buys his clothes and cigarettes. That father came up from the ranks by making a terrific struggle. Now he is using his small fortune to teach his grown-up boy to depend on him. Thre are thousands of such conscientious parents.

Teach Independence

You want to avoid being harmful to your children in this way. Begin as early as possible to teach them independence. They should learn to wait upon themselves, to save money and to spend it wisely.

Train the child by giving him an allowance early. Hold him rigidly to it. Make money difficult for him to get. Let him earn some of it whenever reasonably possible. Prepare him to be comfortable in your absence. Make him feel the need to fit himself for earning his own living. Give him the best education you can afford, and that he can profit by.

A list of books on marriage, education for marriage, and making a go of it may be had by writing me at 235 E. 45th St., New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. When dinner is ready someone must go searching all over the block for our eight-year-old boy.

A. Cease the searching. Name the hour when he must report home and remain until after dinner. His having a watch might help him. Otherwise he can check with a neighbor's clock. When he arrives late let him eat what is left and remain indoors the rest of the evening. In extreme cases his meal, when he arrives late, should be very meager and without any of his favorite foods. Other measures might be better, but in any event the present way should cease, if the lad is to have worthy training in character and citizenship.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
(International News Service Staff Writer)

The government is going to start requisitioning typewriters pretty soon and we know a swell place to start—Washington.

You get off a train at Washington now and they hand you a typewriter, a desk and a blonde at Union station—so far there is no shortage of blondes.

With that equipment you are set to become an 'information specialist."

Experience in public relations helps—say three years as a delicatessen clerk; two on NYA.

The important thing is that you must know how to expand a dull tiny fact into a superbly dull booklet of 48 pages with a foreword by a department secretary and a testimonial from your pastor.

If you can get it up to 72 pages you get another typewriter, another blonde and a desk with drawers on both sides.

That nobody ever will read your "message" is not for you to worry about—you'll get paid.

Thought for the day: Hey Buddy—Wanna buy a hot typewriter?

Toonerville Folks — By FONTAINE FOX

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:15. Sun rises tomorrow 5:58.

Some day instead of "Heil Hitler," "Hell Hitler."

Very often when things are not going well someone is blamed for it.

Mother to daughter: "I don't want you to marry. I've seen the folly of it." Daughter: "But, Mother, I want to see the folly of it, too."

THE NEW TOPSY

A friendly old lady passed a little child on the road feverishly making mud-pies. Questioning the little tot the woman finally asked: "And where were you born?"

"I wasn't born at all," was the reply; "I got a stepmother."

There are people who get a vacation when other people take one.

The wife: "What would you do if we women went on strike?" The husband: "Go to it girlie, I've got a honey of a strike breaker."

People are being asked to buy automobiles now and pay for them during the war and have them delivered after the war is over. Might not be a bad idea.

Mrs. Tiltnose: "You're not keeping to the diet the doctor prescribed."

Mrs. Hefty: "What? Do you think I'm going to starve myself to death just so I can live a few years longer!"

Undertakers get more people into a hole than any other kind of people do.

A TIME FOR EVERYTHING

Junior: "Ma! Ma! A big truck just ran over pa and squashed him all over the street!"

Mother: "Junior, how many times have I told you not to talk about such things when I'm eating!"

Hi Hum was seen with a black eye yesterday. "A tilt with the Mrs.," we asked. "It wasn't that," Hi answered. "Some neighbors dropped in and to make conversation, I remarked how nice Mrs. Smith looked in a bustle." "Well, what happened next?" "She wasn't wearing a bustle," Hi answered sadly.

Golf Pro: "Now use your brassie," Miss Vacanteye: "But I don't wear any this hot weather."

You will never know yourself from hearsay.

Mid pleasures and big cities though we may roam, no newspaper seems right except one from home.

Whiskers for the duration would be terrific.

An average man, say to his credit, is one who tries to marry above the average woman.

We told a chap we always felt better every day after we had this column written. He said he always felt worse every day after he reads it. Just so he reads it.

MOTHER GOOSE, 1941

Hi diddle diddle,
The cat and the fiddle,
The cow jumped over the moon.
The man who was milking her followed suit.
And both came down
In a parachut!

There is a new name for rattlesnakes in this country now. It's "Hitler."

The birds who get sent to jail for violating rules during a blackout will not notice one if it happens while they are in the coop.

No woman has to joi nthe army and be a captain to be able to give orders to her husband.

At one time actresses tried to wear as many clothes as possible to make themselves attractive. Now they wear as few as possible to do the same thing.

If the motorist ahead does some dumb thing and you're about to say, contemptously, "another woman driver!" take a second look.

Jim—You know Marion, don't you?

Frank—Yes, of course.

Jim—I'll bet you don't know she gets rings from men she don't even know?

Frank—You don't mean it!

Jim—Yes, she's the telephone girl.

No man who is any good need advertise the fact. People find him out, if not quite as soon as they discover the fellow who is no good.

TALKING OVER THE HEADS OF OTHERS

Wouldn't you feel out of place if you found yourself seated in a group talking in a foreign language, not one word of which you could understand?

You would wish that the floor would open up and swallow you, or better still that a familiar voice would call you away from this uncomfortable position. Any means of escape would be acceptable.

That, my dears, is precisely how strangers in a group feel when you talk "over their heads."

And how many shy strangers at a party have been forced to endure this torture—just because you insist upon talking endlessly of people and events about which they know nothing.

Always make your topics of conversation so general that all in your group may be able to contribute a few words now and then and feel in the "swing of things." If there is someone in your party especially reticent, try to "bring her out" by asking her a few questions about herself. Prompt her to tell a few stories. She will be your friend for life, if you give her such leads.

Question: I am going to send out invitations to an informal dinner. Should they be addressed to both husband and wife?—Hostess.

Answer: An informal invitation is usually addressed to the wife, the husband being mentioned in the body of the letter. Formal invitations are addressed to both. This rule applies to all invitations, including those to weddings.

Question: I am to be married and intend to continue working. How should I sign checks, receipts and other papers that require my name—Mrs. Mary Smith, Mary Smith or Mrs. J. Smith?—J. D. L.

Answer: "Miss" or "Mrs." should never be used in a woman's signature. You should sign your name: Mary Smith.

Tomorrow: Kissing In Public.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed 3-cent stamped envelope.

ALTERED

George—"I'm a self-made man."
Sam—"You're lucky. I'm the revised work of a wife and three daughters."

It will be a hard job to get a war alarm siren that will be heard above the noise some small sirens make about all the time now.

Some men there are,
Devoid of brains
And glutted with banality,
Yet seemingly so popular
The reason? Purse-onality.

SALE STALK

"How did your sister ever happen to marry such a half-wit?"

"Well, she's such an incurable bargain-hunter that she just can't resist anything that's half-off."

There is said to be a shortage of fats, with no reference to slacks.

DISPASSIONATE CRITICISM

Lady (more or less): Doesn't that little boy swear terribly?

Another Little Boy: Yes'm, he sure do. He don't put no expression in it at all.

The minister came along on a pastoral call just as the farmer was trying to coax a pair of mules into the barn for the night.

"Are you having trouble, Silas?" asked the minister.

"Yes, I am, sir," the farmer answered. "And you're just the man can help me. Tell me how Noah got these animals into the ark."

WAIT TILL TOMORROW

"Louise, I cannot have you reading novels on Sunday."

"But, grandma, this one is all right. It is all about a girl who was engaged to three clergymen, all at once."

Equality has sometimes been expressed this way: One man's as good as another and a darned sight better.

Mabel: "If I'm the first girl you ever kissed, how is it you kiss so well?"

Herbert: "If I'm the first fellow you ever kissed, how do you know I kiss well?"

O Relief, what grafts get by in thy name!

Isn't it surprising how seldom you need to be somewhere else if it takes walking?

NOT SO BAD AS ALL THAT

Miss Rouge—"I'm sorry to hear of your motor accident."

Motoring Friend—"Oh, thanks; it's nothing. I expect to live through many more."

Miss Rouge—"Oh, I hope not."

Army life isn't so tough after you get adjusted. Why, after a month or so you even forget having bifocals and false teeth.

In Australia the voter is punished for not voting. In this country he punishes himself.

You never realize the extent of man's ability to kid himself till you hear what occupations are necessary to public morale.

SHE SAW A CHANCE

A little bride was told by her husband, "The bank has returned my check."

"Good!" she exclaimed, "what can we buy with it now?"

Parasite: Anything that lives on something else. Examples: mistletoe, visiting relatives, Harry Hopkins.

Congress won't support price control. Is it fighting the Axis for the sake of freedom, or fighting America for the sake of farmers?

All right; keep the lights on in coastal cities. We mustn't inconvenience ourselves merely to save ships from Nazi subs.

Russia Expected To Co-Ordinate Later
Litvinov Regarded As Smooth Diplomat
Communists Miscalcuated For Some Time

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Maxim Litvinov, Russia's ambassador here, is a popular diplomat in Washington. Back during the period of treaty relations between Moscow and Berlin he was looked on pretty much askance, was a likable chap, personally, even then. Now he's so recognized by the capital's officialdom, the press and the public generally.

It also is note-worthy that the various representatives the United States government has sent recently to Soviet headquarters all have returned with the most favorable accounts of their conversations with Josef Stalin. He was represented as a ferocious old Muscovite bear not so long ago—an OGPU kind of a character, whom it was at least disagreeable if not downright dangerous to associate with. Today he's described as amiable and kindly as well as seemingly perfectly reliable.

Of course the explanation's simple enough. Whereas previously tied up with the Nazis, the Russians are fighting on our side at present, and doing it very creditably, considering their unpreparedness for having Herr Hitler suddenly turn against 'em. True, they shouldn't have been caught off base, as they were. Still, it's recognized as highly desirable to let bygones be bygones as of the current juncture.

Miscalculation

Furthermore, we and politico-socio-economic folk like us miscalculated those Communists for quite awhile.

They considered government a bad thing and some kinds of it ARE. Under czarism, they had one of the bad kinds. Rebelling against it, they undoubtedly overdid matters in wiping it out. They needn't have been as homicidal as they were with Nicholas Romanov and all the members of his family. It wasn't a principle of Communism, though. A small group of fanatics pulled it off. Communism, by intention, is an industrial sort of a thing, not altogether different from labor unionism, though an enormously exaggerated form of it, certainly.

Okey. It unpopularized itself ini-

LETTUCE

For years I've been gardener for peony and rose
I've learned petunia's habits and where best the salvia grows.
But I turned to vegetables, as a patriotic man,
And I sowed a pack of lettuce
when the present war began.

Down the years I've studied zinnias; I know their habits well
I'm on friendly terms with fox glove and with Canterbury Bell.
But this year I thought that turnips were a crop I ought to grow,
And of lettuce for a salad, I set out a double row.

The radishes were puny and the carrots not so much.
It's evident with parsnips I was wholly out of touch.
But the lettuce! Oh, the lettuce!
I have thirty times enough;
There are bales and bushel baskets, yes, and barrels of the stuff.

The corn seems rather sickly, the tomatoes dying out,
But the lettuce crop is something
I can really brag about.
And if lettuce is a weapon which can overthrow the Hun,
With the lettuce I am raising, then the war's already won.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—Harold McCracken, noted Arctic explorer: "Having the Japanese in the Aleutians is comparable to having the Germans in Florida."

WASHINGTON — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War I flying ace and president of Eastern Airlines, advocates use of land planes as cargo ships: "If we had 20 per cent of our capacity of production in cargo planes we would be in seventh heaven."

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Francis Biddle, during arguments before the supreme court on constitutionality of the Nazi spy trial: "We are at war with the German Reich and these men are our enemies. War wipes out the rights of the alien. . ."

DETROIT—Henry Ford, celebrating his 79th birthday: "This present war was caused by greed, an insane lust for power and financial gain. Until sanity returns to those responsible for it, we cannot expect it to end very soon."

Bible Thought For Today

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

Lady Astor, lady-bull-in-the-china-shop of England's House of Commons, was given a lesson a few days ago which may well be followed by many.

She complained to Brendan Bracken, minister of information, that Dr. Goebbels, Nazi propaganda chief, had misquoted her for his own purposes, and that the British government should do something about it.

She didn't say whether the government should start another special war to vindicate her, but, at any rate, she wanted immediate action!

Whereupon, Laborite Member Frederick Seymore Cocks, observed that the easiest way to avoid being misquoted would be "if, for the remainder of the war, the noble lady preserved an iron silence."

There is hardly a day that some politician or public official does not complain about being misquoted.

In the heat of oratory, a speaker might well forget what he said.

Most spoken words would be much better unsaid. Much flambuoyant oratory would be much better written down, thrown into the waste basket and forgotten.

Look back upon your own troubles. How many have arisen because you said something that you regretted afterwards?

Words spread like weeds. With every repetition of a story it becomes taller and more distorted.

Speak and you give yourself away. A fool can pass as a wise man by keeping his mouth shut and looking important. But a life-long reputation for wisdom can be destroyed by one uncautious speech, by one foolish remark.

The danger of speaking lies not in misquotation but in having people understand you for what you are.

Or, as George Eliot said: "Blessed is the man who having nothing to say abstains from giving wordy evidence of the fact."

The World and the Mud Puddles

WRITE TO THEM

The lawyer in military service as well as every other member of the armed forces wants to hear from home, from his friends and from his professional associates. It is not merely a matter of indulgence in the art of correspondence or keeping the absent one informed of the doings back home. Such details provide the raw material of letters to the boys, but only that. There is a deep yearning in practically all men who are suddenly uprooted from their home environment and placed in totally strange surroundings. That is so even in normal times. It is much more so in the grim exigencies of war.

By this time there can hardly be a lawyer or a judge who is still practicing his profession or performing his official duties who does not know at least five or six young men who are at some far-off camp, fort or outpost. Actually it doesn't matter whether these young men are lawyers or laymen. It is quite natural that lawyers will know more of the members of their own profession. Nor, of course, dies it matter what rank they may have obtained by now. They all have that longing to hear from home. Military authorities and others concerned with military morale vouch for the need for frequent letters to the men in service.

Once one becomes imbued with the idea of giving a concrete thought to those of his friends and associates who have answered the call to duty, it should be a simple matter to translate that thought into action. It should be easy to adopt the routine of starting each day with the dictation or even long-hand writing of at least one letter to some former associate, friend or neighbor who is now in one of the branches of the armed forces. To the members of the bar, to whom "Take a letter, Miss Jones," is almost second nature, this should be a particularly easy assignment. But because it is so easy, it should not be overlooked or indefinitely postponed.

It is therefore suggested that "A letter a day for a lawyer in service" be made a practice in every law office for every lawyer.

Hints On Etiquette

The home bathroom, when there is but one, is the place where we show our best manners, which, reduced to their common denominator, mean consideration for others. Be sure that the members of the family who have the most important obligations to fulfill get the use of it first. When your turn comes, don't take any more time than necessary, and let those waiting their turn know when the bathroom is free.

If German bombers wipe out our convoys, wouldn't it be cheaper to send a converted carrier to guard them?

We never have liked the word, but how can you tell what officials are short of if you don't say guts?

Service Man Tells What Real Heat Is

Letter Makes Those Of Us Who Complained During Recent Heat Wave Look Soft

"Boy, I'm really melting today."

"You said it, brother, it's the hottest day I've ever seen. Just hope I get through all right."

So ran innumerable conversations in New Castle during the recent heat wave that brought a high of 97 degrees.

If you were one of the complainers (and nearly everybody was) read on and prepare to feel ashamed. The following letter was sent to The News by one of our soldier boys far far from home who read about the local heat wave.

July 25, 1942.

Editor of The News,
Dear Sir:

I have just read in The News that you have a heat wave in New Castle. It seems that the temperature has reached the outrageous height of 97 degrees.

I wish that it were only that warm here. On Thursday, July 23, it was 137 degrees above zero here at this unmentionable spot near Rice, Calif.

Sincerely Yours,
JULIUS C. GARDOCKI.

P.S. No shade either. J.C.G.

tially. Investigators like Representatives Ham Fish and Martin Dies went on its trail before any other "ism" was available.

Then along came Fascism. For a bit, Fascism wasn't considered so awful. Signor Mussolini was spoken of for a spell as, perhaps a fairly competent workingman's friend and organizer. It was Adolf who, breaking into the situation later, absorbed Benito and tore genuine hades loose.

Japan isn't totalitarian yet. All it's grabbing at is an imperial, rather than a totalitarian opportunity.

Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini surely don't see it, as to the Japs.

The Japs'll hop them as soon as they'll hop any white race as soon as they think the right time's come.

Investigators Fish and Dies don't see it, either.

Argentina's government doesn't see it yet. It's had a neutrality complex for years. I don't think Chile's got it. It has that temporary bug, but it appears to me to be wearing off. Otherwise we New Worldings are middling solid.

In Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spain has a feuhrer or duce, locally known as a caudillo, who aligns with the totalitarians, but he's wobbling.

Well, as pro-wartime, this isn't so fierce.

But as post-wartime?

Can Russia be hooked into the ultimate world?

Co-ordination

It's big enough to be necessary.

There's hope in Washington to the effect that Moscow and the democracies can co-ordinate.

It's imaginable that they can do it.

They can do it, so far as concern the United States, the British, the miscellaneous little European countries, the Free French, the Italians, perhaps the civilized German element, the Chinese and the Latin Americans. And the Russians, apparently.

That would be a tolerably compact world consolidation.

But the three bunches that are most essential are the Yankees, the British and the Russians.

The Russians can't be omitted.

Neither, indeed, can the Chinese.

Nor can the little countries—classing France as one of 'em.

Nor can India be disregarded, with that bird Gandhi.

The Russians, though, shouldn't go into the discard merely because of what Investigators Fish and Dies have said about 'em.

Correct this sentence: "Workers occupy this bed in shifts," growled the landlord, "and that means clean sheets three times a day."

SPENT NEARLY $1,000 BEFORE TAKING RETONGA

She Feels Duty-Bound To Tell Other Sufferers What Retonga Did For Her, States Mrs. Wright. Tells of Case.

MRS. ELIZABETH WRIGHT

Gratefully giving Retonga full credit for her regained strength, Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, well known resident of Proctorville, Ohio, and for many years a valued employee of the Washington Manufacturing Co. of Huntington, W. Va., declares:

"For a year or more practically everything I ate seemed to disagree with me and often so much gas formed in my stomach that I could hardly breathe. Much of the time my stomach felt like it was on fire from heartburn and my bowels were so costive I was taking cathartics all the time. Certain foods would make me break out in an itching, burning rash that was simply torture. I was underweight, and I felt weak and rundown almost to the point of exhaustion. I spent nearly a thousand dollars on medicines and treatments, but felt no better.

"Retonga not only relieved all this distress but I gained back fourteen pounds of needed weight. I can eat anything on the table now without a bit of distress, and I sleep so restfully I wake up feeling fine. Even that terrible sluggish elimination is relieved. Retonga is the grandest medicine I ever saw."

Retonga is a purely herbal gastric tonic combined with Vitamin B-1. Such happy evidence of Retonga's worth speaks for itself. Retonga may be obtained at Eckerd's and Pay Less Drug Store.—Adv.

City Airport May Train More Pilots If Coast Ban Holds

Inland Fields' Importance Will Rise If Army Shuts Eastern Ports

Closing of eastern seaboard civilian airfields under Army orders may greatly expand the Army and Navy pilot training at inland fields like New Castle airport, Findley C. Wilson, operator of Wilson Aviation at the local port, was told in Pittsburgh yesterday.

The area in the East has been decreed a "vital defense area" and no more airport operations there will be permitted—perhaps for the war's duration—after mid-August.

William Mehl, of Washington, representing the Civil Pilot Training organization, told Wilson and other operators at a luncheon in the Pittsburgh Aero club quarters that that action, scheduled to go in effect August 15, may increase the number of pilot students here.

A large group of Army and Navy pilot candidates are at present taking their primary training here, and how great the potential expansion here would be Mehl could not say.

Most of the fields affected by the order hold contracts for the initial or primary instruction of Army and Navy pilots, as does the local field. Airport operators there are seeking an amendment to the order to allow this training to continue.

Mrs. Wilson accompanied her husband to yesterday's meeting.

En route home, Mrs. Gilliland stopped off in South Bend, Ind., to visit at the home of D. D. Gilliland, former residents of Pulaski.

She was accompanied on the trip by Miss Peg Moren of Toronto, Calif.

HARRISBURG, July 31.—Pennsylvanians seem to be the nation's champion ice-cream consumers.

Leading all other states, the commonwealth's manufacturers last year produced approximately 48,598,000 gallons of the frozen delicacy, Secretary of Agriculture John H. Light revealed. The Keystone state's nearest competitor was New York, where 44,969,000 gallons were made commercially.

Influenced greatly by war conditions, the dairy industry had a record year during 1941. The import of Italian cheese having been entirely cut off, the state's dairy farmers raised their manufacture of this product by more than 559,000 pounds. Increasing almost 12 times, the manufacture of powdered whole milk showed the tremendous gain from 67,000 pounds to 744,000 pounds, while sweetened condensed and evaporated milk production also increased, but in a smaller capacity.

Milk Cow Total Increases

Meanwhile the number of milk cows on the state's farms is steadily increasing and total milk production continues at a high mark, Light added.

Due entirely to an increased number of hens, the commonwealth's poultry flocks last month broke all June production records, the federal-state crop reporting service announced. Compared with May production, however, there was a decline of 2.2 eggs in the average number per layer, which was 16 for the month.

The number of layers in the state last month was approximately 13,514,000 compared with 14,438,000 in May and 12,364,000 in June last year. Total production was 216,000,000 in June compared with 263,000,000 in May and 198,000,000 a year earlier.

Record Tomato Season Seen

With Pennsylvania's heaviest tomato canning season on record in the offing, farmers are concerned with the problem of obtaining sufficient labor for harvesting the crop.

As the season begins early in August and continues until the first frosts, many youthful workers will return to school during the height of the harvest. In some districts growers have made unsuccessful attempts to arrange with school authorities for the release of high school pupils to assist in picking the tomatoes.

One school district, however, is contemplating a plan for the release of students during the peak of the harvesting season. By beginning the school term two weeks in advance of the usual date, authorities plan to eliminate sessions for two weeks when the peak is reached so that the young workers will be free to assist in gathering the crop.

Peach Crop Early

Pennsylvania's 1942 peach crop will be harvested at least one week in advance of the average season, according to the Department of Agriculture.

The peak of the season is expected to be reached during the latter part of August, with completion of the harvest in the south central belt by the end of the month. In the northern areas, however, the harvest is expected to extend well into September.

Transportation Body Sifts Problems Ahead City Tire Survey Due

Tires on automobiles which carry 1,061 Shenango Pottery Co. employes to and from work every day have an average "future life" of ten months, although some may be outworn in three, four or five months, calculations of a preliminary "tire life" survey of the New Castle War Transportation committee revealed today.

When their tires are gone, 79 per cent of the 1,061 must the depend upon coaches of the Shenango Valley Motor Transportation Co., "or some other mode of travel," the questionaire survey further showed.

Late yesterday, at the call of Thomas C. Moore, head of Shenango Valley Transportation's local system and administrator of transportation here, the committee members, composed of city bus, rail, truck, school, merchant, industry and labor leaders met for a second time in The Castleton to discuss their growing problems.

The survey result was reported by Roger Jewett, executive vice president of the Greater New Castle Association and the committee's secretary.

Test Survey

The "test survey" taken at Shenango Pottery and Johnson Bronze—the Johnson Bronze tabulations have not been completed—will be extended to every one of the city's industries within the near future, the commmittee said.

Transportation Czar Moore told the group that New Castle, like all cities, faces a weighty problem which will become more serious as tires begin to wear.

A two-fold objective, it was pointed out, has been adopted by the committee in regard to the coming survey, and Secretary Jewett explained it briefly:

(1) The committee must determine if it will be necessary to further stagger hours of work here.

(2) Once that is determined, it must promote the spread of the share-the-car movement being adopted in metropolitan areas.

Robert A. Eckles, newly named as acting secretary of the Lawrence County War Price and Rationing board, with offices at the court house, who is a committee member, stressed the "tightening up" on tire rationing regulations.

He told the committee is was discussing a problem "most vital to this community" and offered his full cooperation.

Attending the discussion in the Castle club quarters in The Castleton were Administrator Moore, who presided; Secretary Jewett, John W. Leonard, superintendent of the Erie & Ashtabula division, Pennsylvania railroad; James W. Smith, Jr., Shenango Pottery; Harry H. Davies, Johnson Bronze; Superintendent of Schools Frank L. Burton, J. W. Staudinger, The New Castle Store; Harry L. Elder, Paul G. Dingledy and Joseph J. Frengel. Absent were Police Lieut. George S. Kennedy Bernard N. Hanlon and Norman D. Freeborne.

Post-War Conditions Foreseen By Babson; But, 'Win War First'

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1942—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., July 31.—Our first job is to win the war. It would be far better for all of us to concentrate on this task rather than to think about what's coming afterward. However, it is characteristic of our people to look ahead to move swiftly from one task to another and to continually think up something new to worry about! Hence, already some of the boys in Washington are laying long-range plans and the public itself is concerned over the post-armistice period. Here are my brief thoughts on the subject.

BABSON

Long Armistice Probable

The fighting part of the war may end suddenly. Transportation is still our worst bottleneck. Once that is licked, the weight of our arms and manpower will be felt throughout the world. Hitler naturally is trying to reach his goals before that time comes. Moreover, losses on the eastern front may reach a point where both sides will suddenly decide upon an armistice without, however, either Germany or Russia taking a decisive beating.

Hitler's successes in Africa and Egypt were accomplished by only an extremely small fraction of his armed forces. At the same time, they were valuable for home propaganda purposes. Rommel can now lose as well as win. In neither event will the final course of the war be much changed. The real war is being fought on the Russian front. It is foolish now to forecast the result. We, however, will know much more in four months. Then an intelligent forecast can be made.

Armament Program To Continue

Russia has stated that her intent is only to clear her own country of the enemy. Whether, if the time comes, she can or will pass over into German territory is at least questionable. Both sides may, by winter, be worn to a frazzle. If so, an armed truce lasting for years may suddenly be announced. This, however, would not include Japan, but her phase of the war is the lesser. Hitler must first be stalemated, or knocked out.

In this event, we would continue to send men and munitions abroad. Perhaps for years it may be necessary for us to play an important part in the policing of much of the world. Under such conditions our arament industry would by no means re-convert overnight to the manufacture of peacetime goods. A very substantial amount of war material will be lost between now and any armistice period. Furthermore, due to the rapid advance of technological prosesses, much equipment will become outmoded. During the period of any armistice and even after the treaties are signed, I expect to see the production of the implements of war continue. We are not going to be caught again soon.

Will a Financial Depression Follow?

The costs of maintaining an armed truce will be considerably less than fighting a war. Hence, I expect to see a marked easing of the individual and corporate tax load. The present outlook for the national debt does not alarm me. To keep the debt in hand, all that is necessary is for the government to keep up the payments of interest. This it will easily be capable of doing. The gradual redemption of war bonds and the increasing demand for such peacetime goods which will no longer be restricted make it fairly certain that we will not go to the financial bowwows at the war's end.

Short-term money rates should rise. The stock market will be relieved of its burden of fear and once again we may have 2,000,000-share days. The effects of the Social Security Act should begin to be felt. Tourist travel will rise and again Florida, California and the southwest may find themselves highly prosperous. Speaking of travel, if I were 40 years younger I would be awfully tempted to get into the travel agency business. There will be a lot of cheap excursion rates on a world scale when the war is over. Can you imagine how badly mamma, papa and sister will want to see the far-away places where their soldier boy has been? They'll sure go over for a "look-see" some day.

Business Changes Ahead

In peacetime only a few progressive concerns maintain research departments for the improvement of old and the development of new products. It is difficult to get directors or stockholders of most concerns to vote funds for the maintenance of such departments. In wartime the scientists have a field day. Then, new products and substitutes develop rapidly. Out of them come conveniences and benefits which later peacetime civilian life enjoys. In fact, we enjoy them so much and living becomes so easy that in a short time we become soft and wake up to another war.

In the post-war period, we shall have an industrial face-lifting. As the armament industry declines in activity, both the old and the new industries will again become active. Substitutes for silk, rubber, fibers, woolen and other products will be in every-day use. The use of steel may decline, but aluminum, magnesium or some other metal will take its place. Industrial consultants will play an important part in our post-war conversion period. Salesmen will again be in demand to explain new wares to buyers. Advertising will be necessary to acquaint the public with many new items of civilian use. There will be plenty of prosperous businesses and jobs for the nimble-minded who are willing to work hard and save money. Of course, sometime there will be a sad day of reckoning for our present vast expenditures and experiments, but this should not come until after a post-war boom.

Pies Cannot Take Postal Handling

Beautiful Pies Tend To Become Messy In Mails Is Postmaster's Warning

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 31.—Impossible as it may seem, apple pie can be distasteful at times—especially when it has traveled.

According to Johnstown's assistant Postmaster Foster Coyle, what starts out as a juicy piece of pastry, often ends up as a messy pile of mush. Advising friends and relatives of men in the service as to how they may keep within postal regulations and still "send Johnny some of grandma's cooking," Coyle declared:

"Apple pies simply wouldn't reach a soldier in an appetizing condition, if at all edible."

Cakes, however, are strictly okay with the postoffice, as well as practically anything else in the food line that's not perishable or too fragile for secure wrapping.

Rigidly enforced are the limits as to weight and size of packages acceptable for shipment via parcel post, Coyle continued.

"The regulations read," he explained, "that nothing over 70 pounds may be mailed." Also, a package measuring 100 inches in "length plus the girth" is the limit in size.

"That's a hard one to figure out sometimes," Coyle admitted.

The disloyal may have Constitutional rights, but haven't the rest of us the right to be free of the disloyal?

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

FULL-FEED SPRING PIGS FOR EARLY FALL MARKET

Full-feeding now is recommended for the spring pigs if they are to reach the required weight for the early fall market.

Early marketing not only will give the farmer the advantage of the better prices paid when receipts are lower but will help to ease the congestion of transportation and slaughtering facilities expected in handling the nearly 25 per cent larger spring pig crop when the bulk of the crop goes to market this fall.

Pigs that can be made to reach the early fall market, weigh 100 to 125 pounds apiece now. Animals of this weight can be kept on self-feeders with shelled corn, ground wheat or ground barley, or a mixture of any of these farm-grown grains in one compartment and tankage, fishmeal, or 40 per cent protein supplement in a second compartment. Although the mineral requirement above what they get in the feeds suggested is small, the pigs should have access to a mineral mixture.

During this full-feeding period, it is not so important to have a large pasture field available, but the pigs should have some pasture in order to get exercise, sunshine, and succulent material to keep them in good health and stimulate an appetite for the grain required for rapid gains.

This method of feeding will produce rapid gains at low feed costs and the use of the self-feeder will reduce the labor requirement to a minimum. The pasture will help to reduce the amount of grain required to produce 100 pounds of gain.

SULPHUR DUSTS AID FLOWER PROTECTION

A small hand duster filled with sulphur dust is a cheap but effective agent for the prevention of many flower diseases. Diseases when left unchecked may destroy or disfigure many valuable flowers in the garden.

Proprietary sulphur dusts or a dust mixture containing 9 parts of finely divided sulphur (300 mesh) and 1 part of arsenate of lead or lime are effective against many fungus parasites, such as mildews of phlox, leaf spots of roses, and rusts of hollyhocks. Dusts with less concentration of sulphur cannot be depended upon to give satisfactory control of these diseases.

Dusts should be applied at weekly intervals while the foliage is dry and when the temperature is not above 90 degrees fahrenheit in the shade. With high temperatures leaf injury may result.

USE BORDEAUX MIXTURE TO CURB LATE BLIGHT

Late blight is causing serious losses in potato fields throughout Pennsylvania. It has been found in Lawrence county fields. The disease also has appeared in epidemic form in West Virginia, New York, Maryland, and Delaware.

Weather conditions still are favorable to development of the disease. Potato growers are urged to keep all new growth covered with 8-8-100 bordeaux mixture. Hot weather or even hot, dry weather cannot be depended upon to check the disease. The spraying program is the only control measure that will enable the potato grower to harvest a crop this fall.

MILK SLUMP

Hot weather and flies get the blame from most farmers for the mid-summer milk production slump. However, a study of dairy herd improvement association records from 12 states shows that the greatest production decline occurs when pastures fail Therefore, the principal cause for reduced output in July and August seems to be simply a lack of sufficient good feed.

Obviously, the remedy is to give the cows more and better feed during the "lean" months. There are several feeds that can be used, such as temporary pastures, green soiling crops, ensilage, or hay.

Grain feeding is advisable for cows giving more than 20 or 25 pounds of milk daily. The percentage of protein in the grain may vary depending upon the quality of pasture or other feed available. If the quality is good, feed a 16 per cent mixture. An 18 or 20 per cent mixture is recommended with roughage of poor quality.

The amount of grain also will vary, depending on pasture or green feed available. Usually, a pound of grain to each 4 to 6 pounds of milk produced daily is enough if the summer roughage is plentiful. A dairyman must use his own judgment and feed enough to hold his cows in flesh and milk production during these weeks when cows often drop off rapidly.

TIMOTHY PAST HAY STAGE MAY MAKE CROP OF SEED

Timothy has long since passed the stage when it will make a crop of acceptable hay, but many fields still are uncut. If such fields are reasonably clean and if they are free of objectionable weeds, such as quack grass, winter cress, pepper grass, white cockle, and Canada thistle, it may be more satisfactory and profitable to harvest them for seed than to make a low grade of hay.

While it is not known what timothy seed will be worth this fall and next spring, the trend of all seed prices is upward. Much sodland, ordinarily harvested for seed in the Middle West is said to have been broken up for such crops as soybeans. The Allied Nations are calling for large shipments of grass seeds under the Lend-Lease agreement. Therefore, it would seem that an adequate supply of such seeds as timothy, clover, etc., at least for local needs, might be both patriotic and profitable.

Harvesting of timothy seed presents few problems. The common practice is to cut with the binder, cure in shocks, and thresh with a stationary thresher equipped with timothy screens. A combine can be used on clean fields which have reached the dead-ripe stage, but combining often involves considerable loss from shattering and the need of careful handling to assure proper dryness before storing the seed in bulk.

HALT HIGHWAY UPKEEP

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG—Construction and maintenance of Pennsylvania's vast highway system, covering more than 41,000 miles of roadways, have been virtually halted by Federal priorities.

With $53,000,000 available for highway work, the state laid out a record program for 1942 and recently had $33,000,000 worth of construction under contract. Federal orders halted all projects not under way by April 9.

Officials demand censorship for only one reason. They are tired of seeing the press expose their mistakes.

Probe Blast In Munitions Plant

(International News Service)

KINGS MILLS, O., July 31—Cincinnati ordnance district officials investigated today the explosion which wrecked a section of the Kings Mills ammunition plant, killing five workers and injuring a dozen others.

The dead were listed as Melvin Bolen, Kings Mills; Clayton Mooree, South Lebanon; Sid Abner, South Lebanon; Roy Spence, Cozaddale, and Luther Mullen, Lebanon.

Two "dry houses" were virtually destroyed by the exposions, the cause of which had not been determined.

Christ Lutheran Picnic Saturday

Members of Christ Lutheran church and Sunday school will have their annual picnic Saturday afternoon and evening at Cascade Park. Entertainment is being planned, including treats for the children.

Supper is to be served at about six o'clock.

To Washington big shots: Why all this wet-nurse consideration for the public? Are you trying to win a war, or hide it from the people?

God must be with those who fight to save Christian civilization. How strange to have religious scruples against helping Him!

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 31.—The accusation made by Dr. Edward B. Logan, secretary of revenue, that Auditor General F. Clair Ross is padding his mercantile and inheritance tax collecting payrolls with "useless employes" is viewed in political circles as the opening of a drive to smash the political machine of the Democratic nominee for governor. The Republicans took a leaf out of the Democratic book when they charged Ross with employing 21 Democratic state committee members, as well as local Democratic committeemen. During the recent Democratic primary campaign, U. S. Sen. Joseph F. Guffey and other Ross opponents charged that Ross had placed on his payroll a majority of the Democratic state committee members or their relatives in order to secure the committee's endorsement for governor.

Ross termed the blast "the start of the Republican campaign for governor" and a Ross aide remarked, "You didn't expect us to hire Republicans, did you" A Democratic paper, without going into the merits of the case, pointed to the "political drones" that are on the Republican-controlled payrolls of Philadelphia. On Capitol Hill it is common knowledge that all non-civil service appointments to Republican-administered departments must be secured through political leaders.

Accusations questioning the architectural ability of State W.P.A. Administrator Richard Irvin have been made in Pittsburgh before a councilmanic investigating committee. The original plans and specifications for Pittsburgh's new municipal hospital had at least 1,320 errors in them, Architect H. P. Van Arsdall testified. Van Arsdall added that he could list another thousand mistakes "if you so wish". Original plans and specifications were drawn up by Irvin but he was released from the contract in 1939 after charges of "bungling" were made. Irvin was invited to attend the probe but sent word that he was "too busy."

John J. Snyder, member of the State Milk Control Commission, who resigned recently upon receiving a lieutenant's commission in the U. S. Army, remained in office almost 15 months after his four-year term expired. His salary was $6,000 a year. The Northampton county resident, a Democrat, was so well liked by Governor James that when his term expired on May 4, 1941 the governor did not appoint a successor. As a result, Snyder, an Earle appointee, continued to serve on the commission. With Snyder's resignation the commission was left with only one member, Chairman John M. McKee, of Camp Hill, who was appointed by Governor James on June 13, 1939, but whom the senate has refused to confirm. McKee has remained in office through interim appointments by the governor. There has been a vacancy on the commission since the fall of 1939 when Howard G. Eisaman, then chairman, resigned. This position has never been filled.

U. S. Naval Task Force In Round-Trip Convoy Duty

Protect Ships On Both Trips

Enemy Submarines Are Defied In Voyage Through Danger Zones

THOUSANDS OF TROOPS PROTECTED

By JOHN R. HENRY
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE ATLANTIC FLEET, AN EASTERN PORT, July 31.—A crack task force of the Atlantic fleet has completed a round trip to the United Kingdom and scored a double-fold success in the U. S. war effort.

Writing a new chapter in the saga of safeguarding transportation lines between the allies, this aggregation of jaunty, battle-geared naval craft escorted convoys both to Great Britain and back to America.

In defiance of enemy submarines, aircraft and surface raiders, the task force steamed across the most dangerous waters in the Atlantic, meanwhile, giving full protection to sizeable aggregations of passenger vessels and freighters.

Each ship in the convoys was loaded to the gunwales with human cargo and precious materials.

The fleet units returned homeward shepherding ships that carried U. S. civilians and refugees from the war zone.

Steam was raised for the return voyage not long after the task force had safely landed thousands of American soldiers and their military paraphernalia in the United Kingdom.

The westward crossing, like the first leg of the trip, was uneventful in some respects, but it was far from being boringly placid.

Alert Every Minute

All hands kept keenly alert against a sneak punch from the foe.

They manned their guns even while the little armada crept thru swirling guests of soupy mist and when each ship seemed all alone until the neighborly bleating of fog horns signalled movements of the convoy.

Heavy weather engulfed the vessels at one juncture. Some of them bounced like corks in a trough beneath a running swell. The navy lads remained on deck, though, ever awaiting a chance to deal a death blow to the enemy.

This constant vigil provoked an obvious state of suspense. Officers and men were aware that the zero moment could descend before they had time to draw another breath.

Contacts with submersibles rarely occurred. None of the undersea boats risked a dash toward the convoy. Any effort to pass beneath the heavy fringe of destroyers probably would have been tantamount to self destruction for the Herr Kapitans.

One of the U-boats barely escaped being submerged permanently and its crew nearly had a one-way ticket to eternity.

Almost within the shadows of the American shoreline, where German subs claim to have found a happy hunting ground, the task force intercepted a message that one of the submersibles had been sighted 30 miles away.

This correspondent heard the commander of the naval units order his forces onto the offensive.

A pair of destroyers peeled out of the formation. Their depth charges were loaded heavily and brought their sterns low on the surface so that when they steamed away they looked like swift greyhounds lunging out of the barrier at a race track.

Hours passed and the hunt continued. It was futile, however, because the submarine had fled away to prowl another day.

Life in the convoy, otherwise, proceeded on normal course.

LOCAL MAN HURT BY GREENVILLE AUTO

Riecks Earn New Minute Man Flag

Dairy Employees Win Flag When 98 Per Cent Put 10 Per Cent In War Bonds

Waving proudly in front of the Rieck-McJunkin Dairy Co., on South Beaver street is a new blue and white Minute Man flag. It means that Riecks have joined the ever-growing ranks of New Castle concerns who can boast that over 90 per cent of their employes are contributing 10 per cent of their salaries for the purchase of war bonds.

The honor, according to a company spokesman, is due entirely to the Rieck employes for participation in the payroll deduction plan for buying War Bonds is completely voluntary.

The company is proud of all the workers who have helped earn the Minute Man flag and proud to be able to fly the flag which means that everyone in the company is doing his bit toward keeping freedom alive.

Wage And Price Control Plan Of Senator Taft

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Senator Robert Taft (R) Ohio, told the Senate Thursday that the administration's tax program would hasten inflation and then submited a five-point wage and price control program of his own.

It follows:

1. Expand the Treasury borrowing program for sale of war bonds almost entirely to corporations and individuals and none to commercial banks.

2. Lower the farm price floor from 110 to 100 per cent of parity.

3. Give the War Labor Board control of wages and salaries with a limitation to make increases no greater than that granted in the "Little Steel" case.

4. Create an overall commodity and control board.

5. Establish price control by gradual adoption of stabilizing measures and eliminate fixing altogether on small items not a factor in the cost of living.

Taft blamed Leon Henderson, OPA director, for most of the country's price control problems, asserting that Henderson has violated the powers given him by law and undertaken an impossible task by freezing only retail prices and not basic prices.

The administration plan to sell $30,000,000 in war bonds to commercial banks would be no more than "printing so much paper money," Taft said.

Taft laid down his program to the Senate as the upper chamber's finance committee resumed its hearing on the House passed revenue bill. The committee turned to a study on corporation's excess profits taxes amid strong indications that a portion of wartime taxes from industry would be held for a post-war credit.

WAAC Right, Wrong

Those natty little caps worn by members of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps are attractive, but they present quite a coiffure problem. Mary Marlin of Los Angeles, top, models an attractive hair-do, but as far as the WAAC's are concerned, it's out. However, the hair-do modeled by Eileen Wilmot, below, is "regulation." It was created by the Los Angeles Coiffure guild.

British Naval Forces Batter Armed Trawlers

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 31.—Five armed enemy trawlers twice were intercepted and repeatedly hit by British naval forces off Ymuiden, in German-occupied Holland, the admiralty disclosed today.

In the initial engagement, one trawler was set afire and a British vessel also suffered a hit which disabled it. However, the vessel was towed into port.

The admiralty said there were some casualties.

Later, the same trawlers were met by another patrol and further damage was inflicted. Nazi planes attacked the British ship during the latter engagement.

There also was some action in the English Channel. Contact was made by a British force with enemy E-boats but the admiralty said it was not possible to assess the damage inflicted.

All-Woman Jury For Murder Case

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 31.—The first all-woman jury ever to sit in a Cook County Criminal Court listened today to opening statements and testimony in the case of Allen Durand Stuver, 23, accused of strangling to death his wife, Virginia, also 23, because, he said, she had been unfaithful to him.

The presiding judge, Harold Ward, as state senator introduced the bill which gave women the right to serve on juries in Illinois.

After killing his wife, Stuver tried unsuccessfully to end his own life by inhaling gas and slashing his wrists.

Nazi Saboteurs Hunted In Mexico

(International News Service)

MEXICO CITY, July 31.—Local police and defense units joined with federal authorities today in the widespread hunt for three alleged Nazi saboteurs and espionage agents who were reported to have come ashore in Mexico about the same time that eight Nazi agents landed in the United States from submarnies off the Long Island and Florida coasts.

Gen. Anacleto Guerrero, chief of military operations in the Tamaulipas zone, called on the local authorities to be on guard against the enemy spies. He disclosed that the government knew the names of the trio.

News Briefs From City Hall

Police headquarters was notified last night that several lights along the rail removal site in the Seventh ward were out. The proper parties were notified.

Report that a man was seen carrying a machine gun in the Croton district yesterday proved false following a police investigation.

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, Monday, will commence removal of the old and installation of a modern crossing in South Mill street, it was reported by City Engineer John Z. Street today.

TWO SIXTH WARD MEETINGS LISTED

First and Third precincts of the Sixth ward air raid wardens and fire watchers will meet at 7 p. m. Sunday in the Smithfield street fire station, Frank Sargent, C. A. R. W., announced today.

ALERT FOR MOSQUITOES!

(International News Service)

NEWARK, N. J., July 31.—Residents of the Newark area got a warning today to be on the lookout for—not enemy planes but mosquitoes.

Millions of the annoying pests, said county exterminator George W. Eager, will start an invasion of the Newark district from the lowlands of the upper Passaic Valley within a week.

The submarine first was used for war purposes in the American Revolution in 1776.

Old Rubber Plant Being Demolished

After laying idle for many years, the building which had housed the old Seiberling Rubber plant in Mahoningtown has finely been forced to become again a useful part of the national war effort. The Hetz Construction Co. of Warren, O., bought the property to tear down the building and company spokesmen announced that the steel frame work has been sold to war production companies in Pittsburgh and Warren, Pa.

Most of the framework has been removed but the construction men estimate that two weeks of work remain before the entire building is demolished.

URGES YOUTHS TO STAY

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG—Youth was urged by Dr. Theodore A. Distler, president of Franklin and Marshall college, to stay in school rather than "fuss around and get nervous" in the present crisis.

Dr. Distler told Y.M.C.A. youth groups here that he was not worried about the outcome of the war but about post-war settlement. Making peace will be more difficult than winning the war, in his opinion.

Prosecution Near End In Trial Of Wm. Dudley Pelley

Leader Of Silver Shirt Legion Being Tried For Criminal Sedition

By EUGENE J. CADOU
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

INDIANAPOLIS, July 31.—Government prosecutors moved swiftly today toward the conclusion of their case against William Dudley Pelley, leader of the Fascistic Silver Shirt Legion, who with two associates is accused of criminal sedition.

They said they expected to complete presentation of their evidence by the time federal court recesses at the end of the day.

The goateed, neatly clad Pelley has been the whole center of attention, both from the spectators and the government attorneys, but his two aides are liable to similar heavy penalties if convicted.

They are Lawrence A. Brown, secretary of Pelley's Fellowship Press, which published his now discontinued magazine, The Galilean, and Agnes M. Henderson, secretary.

As the prosecution neared the end of its case, Oscar R. Ewing, head of government counsel, brought witness after witness to the stand to refute statements made by Pelley in The Galilean which the government contends were false and seditious.

One of the statements was that many Americans were sympathetic toward the Japanese even after the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. Ewing called traveling salesman Clifford Hacker, a grocer's representative, who said he visited about 300 persons a week in five cities in the Indianapolis area.

Ewing asked him:

"Did you find that any of the people that you discussed the war with after December 7 were not, as the defendant states, critical of the Nipponese? Did you find there was no enthusiasm for the war?"

"No, sir," Hacker replied. "Everyone I talked to thought bad of the Nazis and the Japs."

Another salesman who got around, calling on about 200 persons a week, was Harley T. Litteral, who deals in drug supplies. His reply to a similar question was:

"Everybody I talked to hated the Axis powers. Even before Pearl Harbor they were talking that way about them. No one ever gloated over Axis victories, no, sir."

Pelley had been accused of saying there was so little enthusiasm for the war that some Americans took satisfaction in Axis victories, even against our own forces.

Moody Class Has Outing Thursday

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse N. Kerr were hosts to members and families of the Moody Men's Bible class, First Methodist church, at their summer cottage near Rose Point Thursday evening.

Festivities got underway with a delicious and bountiful tureen dinner which proved to be the highlight of the evening. During the hours that followed, young and old alike enjoyed swimming, boating, visiting and horseshoe pitching. Rev. W. Y. McLean, pastor of the First Methodist church and teacher of the class, with his able partner, Harry Ward, gave an exhibition in the art of horseshoe pitching by trouncing Dr J. W. Post and Carl Reed.

As the closing feature, Mr. Kerr expertly cut and served iced water melon to the many guests.

Mock Trial Features Day At Camp Rentz

Judge "Rumble Bumble Bottom" Imposes Heavy Sentences On Several Campers

Judge "Rumble Bumble Bottom," alias Counsellor Dick McKee, held trial at Camp Fred L. Rentz yesterday. The judge imposed heavy sentences on Jim Cox, Geo. Wagner, Bob Johnson, Bob Preston, Bill Swisher, Jack Sweesy and Sam Sanfillippo for various and sundry offenses. Lawyers and court officials included Jim Hares, Bob Johnson, Ken Scheppele, Bob Preston and Bob Jackson.

Court was followed by "Topsy Tervy Day" which, as its name implies, was full of unexpected reverses. In fact, the only thing which ran in its accustomed manner were the motion pictures shown by Jack Boyle.

Camper's fathers are invited to participate in the swimming activity with their boys on Sunday. The Reverend Homer Davis of the Croton Methodist church will conduct vesper services for the boys and their parents Sunday afternoon at 3:15.

SALMON EXPERIMENT
(International News Service)

HANCOCK, N. Y.—The Army and Navy may, if the war lasts long enough, resort to Delaware River salmon. Conservation officials of New York and Pennsylvania are considering a plan to plant some in the river's headwaters here. Old records show that the experiment was tried here many years ago, and that the fish grew to fifteen inches in a year.

Natural, genuine pearls are found in the waters off India and the East Indies, Australia, Tahiti, Panama, the Philippines and Venezuela. Pearls are advancing in price because of the war, which prevents divers from doing their work.

David Jameson Lodge Will Be Hosts Thursday

Subordinate Lodges And Encampment To Be Guests Next Week

David Jameson lodge No. 9, I. O. O. F., will meet on Thursday evening, August 6, at 8 p. m. with James C. Fleming, chief ruler, presiding.

The eight subordinate lodges and Encampment of Lawrence county have been invited to attend this meeting. It is an open meeting for all third degree members of the Odd Fellows.

Initiation of seven candidates by the degree staff under the direction of James R. Donnelly, degree master, and William R. Earl, musician, will take place.

The class of seven candidates is to be known as the "Clifford W. Fenton class" to be initiated in honor of the late Clifford W. Fenton, past grand master of the grand lodge of Pennsylvania, whose home lodge was in New Castle. Through C. W. Fenton's efforts, David Jameson lodge No. 9 was instituted and is also in honor of the third anniversary of the lodge.

Special guests of the lodge for that evening will be: John B. Thompson, deputy grand master of the grand lodge of Pennsylvania; Robert J. McCombs, district deputy grand master of the subordinate lodges of district No. 1, Lawrence county, and G. C. Dennison of Ellwood City, district deputy grand master of the subordinate lodges of district No. 2.

Shenango Valley lodge No. 5 of Sharon has also been invited to be present for this initiation.

Election of a recording secretary and treasurer will be made due to resignation. Installation of these officers will take place to fill the balance of the term.

After the meeting refreshments will be served by the social committee composed of James R. Donnelly, Chairman, assisted by William T. Bates and William L. Holler.

Nature Assures Perfect Blackout

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 31.—Nature took a firm hand in assuring air raid wardens in nearby Hickory that a recent test blackout would be 100 per cent. perfect.

A severe electrical storm that swept the district about an hour before the alarm, damaged power equipment so badly the small community had no lights for several hours.

Johnstown Flyer Drops Parachute Note To Girl; Country-Side Arms For Spies

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 31.—Sherman was right! And if anyone doubts it, just consider the case of this young Cambria county man.

He was very much in love, you see, and was desirous of spending an evening in the company of the lady of his heart.

He decided to ask for the "date" in a non-prosaic manner, so he flew over the home of his lady-love and dropped a letter, attached to a small parachute.

Alarmed citizens, fearing enemy agent activities, called police who failed to appreciate the sentiment of the situation.

In war-time, one just doesn't go around dropping things out of airplanes. The romantic young flier probably will lose his flying privileges for the duration.

Traffic Toll In Nation Decreases

CHICAGO, July 31—While the nation's traffic toll of 14,800 in the first six months of 1942 was a decrease of 15 per cent from the same period last year, 8,400 of the deaths were industrial workers who were lost to the country's war effort, the National Safety Council announced today.

The council said that decreased mileage due to curtailment of cars and tires was an important factor in the reduced death toll.

Milwaukee, Wis., with a population of 587,500, was the largest city to complete June without a traffic death. Binghamton, N. Y., the largest city with a perfect record for the first half year, led the low death rate rankings for cities of 50,000-100,000 population.

Carnegie Illinois Booklet Warns Heat Sickness Can Kill; Urges Precautions

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 31.—You may not be able to push the weather man around, but you can beat the heat, contends the industrial relations division of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, where it really gets hot in the summer.

Warning that heat sickness may result in death, a booklet published by the group emphasized the dangers of excessive play, body dirt, and the use of drugs without the advice of a physician. They urged workers to wear lightweight, light-colored clothing whenever possible, get plenty of sleep, keep the digestion regular, and check periodically with a doctor.

Dizziness, cramps, weakness, nausea and vomiting are signs of heat sickness and should be lessened by taking two or three salt-and-sugar candies to replace the salt and sugar given off in perspiration) and taking one or two glasses of water—cool, not cold.

Proper eating and drinking is the most important single factor in maintaining health in hot weather, the bulletin continues. Alcoholic drinks should be used more moderately in hot weather than in cold, and big meals should be eaten only after working hours, although one should never come to work without having eaten at all.

State To Continue Rubber Collection

Pennsylvania, 7th Best In Nation, Congratulated On Its Rubber Salvage Work

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 31.—Pennsylvania, which collected more than five pounds of scrap rubber per capita during President Roosevelt's rubber drive, will continue to salvage scrap rubber through 1942 at least, the advisory committee on salvage of the state council of defense announced.

"Pennsylvania's salvage committee, cooperating whole-heartedly with the petroleum industry, did an excellent job in the president's drive," said Colley S. Baker, executive secretary. "Now we are going to continue to sponsor the collection of scrap rubber in this state as long as it is needed for war production purposes, along with metals, household fats, tin cans, rags and other materials that may be needed from time to time in armament production."

In its report to the president, the petroleum industry war council said that collections of rubber during the drive from June 15 to July 10 amounted to 19,322 tons in Pennsylvania, this state being seventh in volume in the entire country. New York State was sixth with collections of 19,385.

Pennsylvania, according to the advisory committee on salvage, collected more than 25,334 tons of rubber during the president's drive. This included collections made by salvage committees and waste material dealers, which were not turned over to the oil companies, but did not include collections from automobile graveyards.

Draft Evaders Given Two Years

PHILADELPHIA, July 31—Seven men accused of violating the draft today were sentenced to two years each in a federal penitentiary by Judge George A. Welsh, who told them:

Camp East Brook Chatter

Have you been wondering what the creatures in the "Hundred Acre Wood" at Camp East Brook have been doing? Well, if you have, lend an eye because they have not been hibernating as you may have supposed. No, indeed! In fact they have been so active there has not been time to sit down and record it.

The big dress ball was last Saturday night. In the hopes that we might cool off a little, we had a Snow Ball. The dining room windows were trimmed with icicles and heaped with cotton snow. Red and green wreathes added color to the festivities as did a small Christmas tree upon a table trimmed with tinsel and surrounded by snow. The mantle and piano were also heaped with drifts. After a delicious dinner to which such notable characters as the Mayor of East Brook and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Head, Walter and Mrs. Winchell, Miss Print Newsy and Miss Know-it-all Newsy, Mr. Wimple and Sweetie Face came, there was a floor show.

A beautiful piano selection was played by Ruth Edelstein; Mary Mielke and Maxine Taylor sang a duet and each one a solo; Sally Hogan told a story about Teeny Weenies and "Danny" Danner told about Olly and his oondershirt. There was a dialogue by "Francie Prey and "Dinny" Hannan, a Barbershop Quartet consisting of "Scottie," "Chirp", "Danny", and "Dinny" and another more cultivated quartet in which sang Nancy McCullough, Dorothy Johnson, Alda Ticconi and Rose Tyder. Irma Lee Reinhart tap-danced and the surprise and treat of the evening was a two-party minstrel show presented by Ruth and Emmy Lou Weir in which they swapped jokes about campers and counselors.

Sunday morning the campers were divided into three groups for Sunday School classes and then the entire camp went over to the Cliff for their Sunday morning Worship under the leadership of "Chirp" Burrows. The service was one of silent meditation, prayers, readings by "Dinny" a solo by "Tinkle" and hymn singing. That evening was the supper hike when each cabin group hiked with its counselor to a choice spot for a nose-bag lunch. "Tinkle" Weir's cabin, Thistle Corner had charge of candle light service.

Monday was Backward Day when campers and counselors alike don their apparel backwards, go through doors backwards, say "Goodnight" in the morning and "Good morning" in the night, wear different socks and shoes on each foot and change their hair-do. The climax of the day was a backwards party where we played backward games.

The hare and hound chase held full sway on Tuesday evening. The hares were very tricky this time and were able to crouch in their hiding places until after the whistle blew signifying that the time was up for the hounds to score on the hares.

After crackers and milk there was a surprise for the campers. "Scottie" and Dinny played a record for them which Ruth Weir, Dorothy Fehl, Betty Lou Dinger, Edith Davis, Elaine English and they recorded it at Mrs. Wm. J. Caldwell's that afternoon. It was a recording of a Candlelight Service woven around the "Moonlight Sonata" under the leadership of "Scottie" and on the reverse side was a talk by Mrs. Wm. J. Caldwell and an interview. Dinny interviewed the other members of the group.

Wednesday too brought its special features. Miss Marguerite White, the General Secretary of New Castle Y. W. C. A., Mrs. A. B. Foster, president of the Y. W. C. A. Board, Mrs. James A Rugh, chairman of the Camp Committee and Mrs. W. L. Reneker of the Y. W. C. A. Board visited and took moving pictures of the activities of the camp. They will probably be shown at the camp reunion this winter. Wednesday evening was the weiner and marshmallow roast which was held indoors because of rain. After the roast there was an exciting mushball game between the White and Blue teams. The White team proved victorious over all teams in mushball. Thursday night will be their final test, however, when they play the conselors. Charades were given after the mushball game, both of which were umpired by "Dinny". All were ready for crackers and milk because even though all may not be playing in the game, our rooting ranks are ultra-active physically as well as vocally.

As for the tournament between the Reds, Whites and Blues, the Blues have fallen quite below but the Red and Whites are running close. The Reds are leading jacks, ping-pong, and checkers while the Whites are ahead in badminton, mushball and beanbag.

Human decency hits bottom when men sit in easy chairs, sipping cold drinks in the shade, and sneer at men who are facing bullets.

Restrict Liquor Sales To Soldiers

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 31—Sale of intoxicating drinks to soldiers from Indiantown Gap Military Reservation after 11 p. m. nightly, except-ing Saturday, was banned in the Harrisburg area by the army today.

The curfew was extended to midnight on Saturdays. At the same time five liquor dispensing establishments were designated by army authorities as "off limits" for soldiers.

Maj. C. G. Beese, provost marshal at the post, asserted "we have a war to win and soldiers can't drink liquor until 2 a. m. and be in condition for military training later the same day."

Farm Program Of YWCA Given

Townswomen To Help Farm Women In Basic War Work, Solution Of YWCA

As the country's farms go on a war basis with higher quotas and fewer hands with which to produce them, the burden on the farm woman is being doubled beyond her capacity. Help must come, many of them believe, not from raw recruits of farmerettes, but from townswomen who will take over their household work.

One solution, advanced by the agricultural council of the YWCA, made up of a dozen women farm leaders, will shortly undergo experiments in an eastern farm country. The try-out will seek to discover whether townswomen can save the situation as successfully as they have done in a number of European countries.

"It will be an appeal to the patriotism of town and village women who wouldn't ordinarily do this type of work," explained Miss Elizabeth Herring, national secretary of rural work at the Y.

"It's a good hard job of dishes and children, but it will release women to the fields who know how to work there better than raw recruits. Many farm women are doubtful of the practical value of the farmerettes. They sum it up by saying they haven't the back for hot days in the field.

"The farm woman's work lasts from sun-up to sun-down. It's dirty, back-breaking hard work. She has no pretty military uniform, only overalls and a hat chosen for its shade value. The country needs to recognize it as basic war work."

Police Conference Held Thursday

Officers From Western Pennsylvania Gather For F. B. I. Meeting In City

Quarterly conference of police of Western Pennsylvania was held in city hall here yesterday with Chief of the Pittsburgh division, FBI, in charge. Among those who addressed the police were R. B. Danielson, P. R. R. police, Youngstown, Dr. W. A. Womer, New Castle and Thornton, Mayor Charles B. Mayne and Acting Chief R. A. Criswell welcomed the visiting authorities to this city.

Danielson described what is being done to protect railroads and Dr. Womer dwelt upon social diseases that cost man hours and bring ills to men not only in military service but defense plants.

Copies of the May act which bans prostitutes from districts near camps and defense plants were given by Thornton to all police after which he explained how the act is being enforced.

The police then witnessed two motion pictures concerning the ravages of social disease and later went to the Crescent thetaer where they witnessed "United We Stand," a motion picture soon to be released to the public. Norman Freeborn operated the motion picture camera.

Who said "Sunshine has a divine caress?"

Sunshine can kiss with the impact of a blow-torch.

Especialy on heliophobes.

Heliophobes are light or red-haired individuals.

They cannot tan—they burn.

First they freckle—then turn red—then sizzle.

Persons who burn and do not tan should protect their skins.

They should not be exposed to the sun from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.

This is when the sun's rays are rich in ultra-violet light.

The safest way to tan is with a short exposure the first day.

Time of exposure can be increased each day.

Much valuable productive time is lost on account of sunburns.

WARNS PUBLIC ABOUT NIGHT LIGHTS HERE

Establishment Must Have Either Watchman Of Cut-Off Switch, It is Stated

Frank Sargent, chief air raid warden for the city OCD today made public a letter received by the local organization from State Executive Director A. C. Marts of Harrisburg in regard to night illumination. In addition Sargent warned that a supplement order has been received stating that lights shall not be left burning in homes at night unless there is someone present to turn them off if an air raid arrives.

Marts' letter follows:

"The matter of illuminated show windows is a serious problem during air raids. We have asked the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association to create a plan by which merchants shall extinguish such lights when the Air Raid Alarm is sounded.

"Based upon their suggestions, the following plan will be in effect until further orders, or until a national policy on the matter is announced by the Office of Civilian Defense:

"For the period of the emergency, no store windows should be illuminated at night unless (1) there is on duty within the establishment a night watchman who will immediately extinguish the window lights when the alarm is sounded, or (2) the store owner or operator installs an approved outside cut-off switch placed in a conspicuous and accessible location and lighted if necessary.

"Due to the variety of individual situations that will be presented, the local council of defense, in cooperation with the local retail association shall appoint qualified persons to determine what type or types of outside cut-off switches should be installed in order to insure their rapid and satisfactory operation in an emergency.

"In addition to the problem of illuminated store windows, there is the kindred and almost equally serious question of all-night "safety" lights and other occasional night lights in commercial establishments. This problem also should be considered and acted upon through the joint efforts of the local council of defense and the local retail merchants' association.

"Each local council of defense shall require air raid and fire wardens to familiarize themselves with the locations of all lighted commercial windows (and the location and operation of the cut-off switches therefore) in their respective territories."

Held in Slaying

Charged with murder in San Francisco in connection with the slaying of Lucien Doyer, 38, father of three children, is sixty-eight-year-old Mary Slater (above) who occupied an apartment over the victim's residence. The shooting, according to authorities, was said to have been the climax of an argument over noise at their homes.

A souvenir knife he brought back from Burma is shown by bearded James Regis, of Bangor, Maine, to Jack Peavy, 11-year-old Miami boy. Regis, aerial photographer who served with the Flying Tigers, is on leave before he rejoins his companions in some new theatre of war. The famed flying group was recently incorporated into the U. S. Air Force.

AA Guns on Egyptian Battlefield

News of the Day Photo

British Imperial engineers, using a battery-powered drill and other equipment, dig emplacements to set up anti-aircraft guns to harass Axis fliers in the battle for Egypt. The guns are set up along one of the supply routes, on which trucks may be seen speeding in background. The combined use of guns and new planes has given air supremacy to the British.

Angott May Sour 'Sugar' Robinson In Brawl Tonight

Robby Seeks 122nd Straight Win In 10-Round Madison Square Garden Fracas

ANGOTT RANKS A 1-2 UNDERDOG

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 31.—Two fighting guys who climbed to boxing glory by greatly circuitous routes meet in a ten rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight and the mob is sticking with Flashy Ray Robinson, Harlem's unbeaten hot spot to win his 33rd straight professional bout by whipping Sammy Angott, Washington, Pa.

The wise guys thinks the youthful kayo flash, who boasts a winning streak of 121 straight, counting his amateur conquests, has too much youth, speed and sock for the veteran Sammy, current lightweight king, in this catchweight affair, and have installed the Sugar Kid a 2 to 1 favorite.

Do not let the odds fool you. They undoubtedly will be shaved to 7 to 5 by ring time—and don't be a bit surprised if the longest winning streak in recent years is snapped.

We think Sammy will win this one, because he's a great "spoiler" and while his tactics don't always make for blood-curdling fights, he lost but two decisions in the last two years and is hell on wheels in return bouts.

Remember this, too, buddy boy—Robinson has a pair of china hands, right now, and if he should happen to bounce a couple of hard ones off the top of our Samuel's bobbing dome he might crack them and hurt them badly. In that case Angott would win in a walk.

"Sugar" Should Win

If Robinson's hands do hold up, however, he should win again. He whipped Sammy a year ago in Philadelphia, getting off to a sensational start when he floored Angott for 9 in the second round of a ten round bout.

Little Marty Servo, with far less experience than Angott, proved that Robinson can be confused if crowded against the ropes and mauled. That is about the only weakness in Ray's fighting armor, as we see it, but Angott is a master at that technique and is most determined to avenge his set-back at the hands of the "Joe Louis of the Little Men."

In an eight round semi-final Maxie Shapiro of New York's East Side will face the improving Chester Rico of the Bronx. Three sixes and a four rounder will complete the card.

Promoter Mike Jacobs expects the gate to gross about $35,000.

The fight, to be broadcast by WCAE, will start at about 10 o'clock, New Castle time.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Hal Chase, 66, of Oakland, Calif., is in a critical condition in a Highland hospital because of a heart attack. He was a great ball player in his day . . . Al McBride Jr. won the Pittsburg South Park junior gold title when he beat H. A. Lindahl, Carnegie Tech soph, 1 up in the 18-hole final round.

Melio Bettina, former light-heavyweight champion, reported today at Camp Upton for army training . . . Garvey Young of Boston will be Fritzie Zivic's opponent, August 13, in Madison Square Garden, New York . . . Heinie Manush, former major leaguer, now Greensboro, N. C., manager, wears the numeral 41 which also denotes his age.

Tonight at Beaver Falls the middleweight championship of the Beaver Valley will be decided when two former amateurs, well known here, clash in a 10-rounder. They are Tommy Yarosz and Ernie Pelai. Bill Dummer, former Pittsburgh promoter, and who dropped in to say "Hello" a week ago, is the promoter.

Slim Ransom, grid, floor and track teams coach, has received a commission as lieutenant, junior grade, in the U. S. Naval Reserves. He has been granted a leave of absence by Geneva college . . . The Sammy Angott - Sugar Robinson fight should be good in New York tonight. Sugar has twice beaten Sammy.

Russell Baxter Loses; Reale Wins

Sonny Horne Captures Twentieth Pro' Win By Beating Britt

Jackie Carpenter of Warren finished Russell Baxter of this city last night in the first of a scheduled six rounder at 158 pounds last night at Idora Park, Youngstown. Carpenter had Baxter down three times. However, Billy Reale, the Castlewood heavyweight farmer, outpointed Tommy Blue of Cleveland in a four round battle.

Sonny Horne of Niles gained his twentieth pro win by taking a 10-round decision over Frankie Britt of Providence. It was a hard and close fight for six rounds. It was the main bout. Tommy Bell, Youngstown, scored a TKO over Tommy Gungher of Warren in the opening stanza and George Baratko, Cleveland middleweight, flattened Jim Turner who "subbed" for Oakie Greer of Qenkins, Ky., in the second round.

Francisco Seguara, South American defeated Alan Lobel, N. Y. U. and the Ecuadoran also beat William Ritz, also of New York, in the Eastern Clay Court Tennis tourney in Gotham yesterday.

Setback Sinks West Pittsburg Into Second; Bessemer-Slovaks Triumph

INDIES-ELDERS PLAY 10-INNING 3-3 TIE

City Baseball leaguers passed the quarter way mark in their second half drive Thursday night.

As usual, the sandlotters thrilled onlookers with a snappy display of ball handling and pitching.

Stepping on the scoring accelerator, the Moose club ascended to the leadership by walloping West Pittsburg, 8-1, on Marshall field. The triumph was the fifth for the Rodenbaughmen against a single loss and the second setback for the Fundootsmen in a half dozen skirmishes.

Bessemer hopped on the winning van again, shellacking Ellwood City, 5-2, at Ellwood City; the Slovaks annihilated Croton 11-1, on Cascade field, and the Elders and Lawrence Indies battled to a 10-inning 3-3 tie.

CONSIDER CHANGE

With the grim spector of war hovering over the campus, University of Pennsylvania sports managers are considering a drastic revision of the usual summer programs.

Champion in Action

Winner of the Middle States Women's Grass Courts tennis title at Philadelphia, Louise Brough, 19-year-old Beverly Hills, Cal., tennis star, shows you the fine backhand stroke she used to beat Margaret Osborne, who is ranked fourth nationally. Miss Brough is ranked 10th nationally.

BROTHERLY AFFAIR

Ed Nowak, Atlanta pitcher, and Hank Nowak, New Orleans pitcher, are brothers. One had to remain home and support the family. They tossed to see which would go to war. Hank is now pitching for Camp Lee.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Friday potpourri:—

Besides helping Uncle Sam win a fight that must not be lost, our soldiers are encountering rare experiences that would elude them during peaceful times. Dante Fusco, a localite serving a hitch with the United States Marines, relates what he labels "my biggest trrill." . . .

The south side sports addict, stationed in Philly, writes that he was idling at the Stage Door Canteen, a place for service men. "There, I met Melio Bettina, the heavyweight sensation. We talked at great lengths. Bettina asked numerous questions about New Castle, apparently being familiar with our city."

Continuing, the curly haired service man pens "Bettina even gave me a "pass" for his Dorazio fight, Monday night. I met Walter Pidgeon, the famous actor. I had my picture taken with Ruth Chatterton and Ralph Forbes, famous screen stars. So you can see that being in service isn't the toughest thing in the world." . . .

New Castle high's gridiron exploits occupy the center of the chatter table even in some army camps. Pvt. Eddie Hannon, stationed at Camp Edwards, Mass., writes that he had several other western Pennsylvanians, got tied in one of those gabfest regarding scholastic football. He'd like an answer through this column so, here goes:

The New Castle-Johnstown series is even, the Johnnies having won twice in four engagements. New Castle and Charleroi have faced each other a half dozen times, New Castle emerging triumphant four times, compared to one loss (6-14 in 1931) and a 7-7 tie in 1935. . . .

If our Buccos could swing the deal, I know a pitcher who could bolster the staff considerably. The flinger is Harry Brecheen, now twirling for Columbus (St. Louis Cardinal farm). The lefty has already notched a dozen wins against only six losses, most of them at the start of the season. His earned run average is tops in the A. A. He's the best in the loop this season, that's unanimous in the circuit. . . .

Winning twin bills from the Yankees in Comiskey Park is getting to be a habit. The White Sox have done it twice this season. . . . And Brooklyn has dropped a twin bill only once this semester. . . . When the regular manager gave up, Bob Tarleton, an office man for the last 20 years, quit his swivel chair and took over the reigns at St. Paul. He directs in regular street clothes.

BASEBALL STAR

GREAT LAKES, Ill.—Lieut. Commander Frank W. Fenno of Westminster, Mass., commander of the submarine which crept into Manila Bay shortly before the fall of Bataan and removed the larger part of the wealth of the Philippines in gold and silver, was an outfielder on the Atlantic Fleet baseball team in 1923. One of his teammates was Chief Quartermaster C. M. Mulkey, who now assists Lieut. Mickey Cochrane, director of baseball and softball at the Great Lakes station. Chief Mulkey played shortstop on the fleet squad.

Dodgers Win 70 Out Of 100 Games

Brooklyn Mark Best Since 1913; Phillies Still 'Hot', Trip Reds

CLEVELAND DOWNS BOSTON AGAIN, 4-3

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 31.—Those greedy Brooklyn Dodgers have pilfered another honor in their march toward their second successive National league pennant. When they pounced upon the hapless Chicago Cubs for a fat 9 to 2 victory, the Durochermen chalked up their 70th decision of the season against 29 defeats.

You have to turn the calendar way back to 1913 to find a parallel to the tempest being churned up by the raucous Flatbush frailers. That year the Giants won 70 of their first 100 games. Since then, until the Dodgers turned the trick with their usual brashness, no other team in the National league had been able to achieve that record.

Allen Wins 10th

While Johnny Allen held the Cubs under control to score his tenth triumph, although the moody right-hander was taken out for a pinch hitter in the midst of a Dodger rally in the fifth inning, his teammates were teeing off on the Wilsonmen for 14 hits.

The scheduled game between Pittsburgh and Boston was postponed. In the only other scheduled contest, Philadelphia whipped Cincinnati, 4 to 2 with Shortstop Bobby Bragan's triple being the big blow.

Over in the American league, Cleveland went into a tie with Boston by beating the Red Sox, 4 to 3. Mel Harder settled down after Ted Williams greeted him with his 22nd home run, good for two tallies, in the first inning and then helped himself to his ninth triumph by smacking a single with the bases jammed in the seventh frame.

Buck Newsom scored his eighth decision when he kept eight St. Louis hits well scattered to give Washington an 11 to 6 win over the Browns. Fred Ostermuller, making his first appearance for the Brownies, went down in the fifth frame under a four-run Senator barrage.

Jimmy Vernon homered for the Nats with a pal aboard in the third, and Walt Judnich matched the circuit clout for the Browns with two men on.

Tigers-A's Split

Detroit and Philadelphia split a twin bill. The Tigers raced away with an 11 to 5 count in the opener, then the Athletics came back with a 7 to 6 decision in the finale.

The Tigers scored six runs in the eighth frame of the first game with Pinky Higgins' home run sparking the attack. The A's tallied three times in the first stanza of the nightcap and once in the second to drive Tommy Bridges to the showers.

Chicago was idle and the Yankees played an exhibition against their farm hands, the Kansas City Blues.

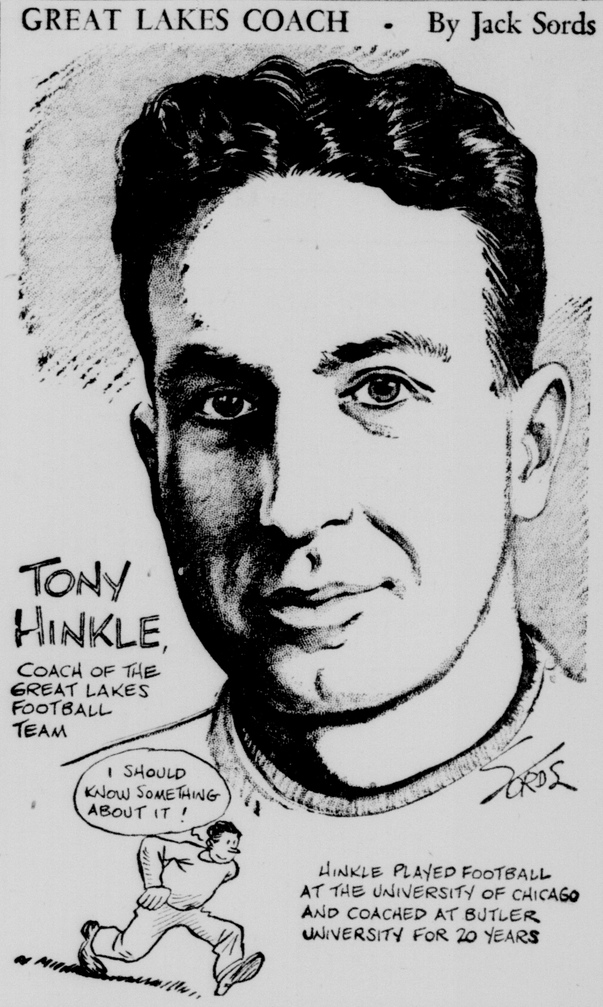
GREAT LAKES COACH - By Jack Sords



FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 31.—"Statistics are crazy little things," the man said, burrowing deeper into the frayed, age-yellowed newspaper clippings and digging at the innards of the baseball record books. He jotted down another row of dates and numbers on the figure-spattered sheets of paper strewn around the room.

"Statistics show, for instance, that the Dodgers haven't won the pennant yet," said the man, who may be identified as Bill Brandt, head of the National league service bureau and currently engaged in trying to keep interest alive in the National league race.

Actually, of course, the Dodgers haven't repeated, but everybody was beginning to assume that they had given a pretty good imitation thereof with their big lead at this stage of the proceedings.

Blew Big Lead

But Mr. Brandt reveals that the Dodgers once were much farther in front of the St. Louis Cardinals than they are now and still blew it. The Cards rose up cake-walked through the stretch, picked up 17 games on the Dodgers and won the pennant going away to leave the Dodgers back in fourth place. That was back in 1930.

To be exact ,on the night of Friday, August 30, 1930, the Dodgers had won 61 games and lost 39 and the Cards were in fourth place with 49 and 49, trailing not only the Dodgers, but also the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants. The Cards were 11 games off the Dodgers' pace.

Nobody gave the Cards much of a tumble. They didn't figure to overtake three clubs through the stretch, after playing only .500 ball up to that point.

Then the Cards began to go. They moved into third, then into second and finally into first place with a spurt through their last 54 games that gave them 41 victories against only 13 defeats and the pennant with 92 wins against 62 losses.

Those budding gas-housers not only overcome the 11-game edge they had spotted the Dodgers earlier in the race, but added six games to it to knock the Dodgers back into fourth place, the latter exchanging positions with the Cards in the standings. The Cubs and Giants clung to second and third places all the way to the finish.

However, in pointing out all those perhaps significant facts, Mr. Brandt stumbled over some more as he toyed with statistics. His attention was arrested in a moment by a little clump of figures off by itself and he stood transfixed, like a real good bird dog which has come to a rigid point as he unexpectedly stumbles on a covey under a huckleberry bush.

Mr. Brandt discovered to his horror, in trying to build up the Cards, perhaps these current Dodgers are better than those 1930 Dodgers.

"Yes, I guess it shows it right here," he said, pointing to a discovery.

Have Won 69 Games

It seems that when the Dodgers made it two out of three over the Cards Wednesday night and won their 69th game that they had approached some record for this point in the National league pennant race.

If they can win two more in a row they will reach 100 games with 71 wins against only 29 defeats, which would be more victories than any club has won in the first hundred since 1912 when the Giants made it 72 and 28. The next best record is the 69-31 made by the Giants in 1913, while the all-time mark is 73-27 set by the Cubs in 1907.

The Dodgers can't, of course, beat that Cub record or the Giants' mark of 1912, but they can turn in the best performance since 1912. Mr. Brandt concedes that, but doesn't concede the pennant yet.

FAVORS LIGHTWEIGHTS

In five years Chalky Wright, featherweight champion, has fought few featherweights, though he is one of the busiest boxers in the game. His foes, for the most part, are lightweights. Sometimes he boxes welterweights.

Whirly Odds On Favorite To Win Arlington Classic

Famous Hoss Will Run Saturday, Weather Notwithstanding; Prize $25,000

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 31—Whirlaway was expected today to go to the post in tomorrow's $25,000 Arlington Handicap at odds possibly as short as 3 to 5 in the Calumet stable star's first start at a Chicago track this season.

Trainer Ben Jones said Whirly would go whatever the weather or track condition and this assurance gave promise of another banner crowd at popular Arlington Park.

The long-cherished hope of a meeting between Whirlaway and Alab was not to be realized, for Al Sabath, owner of the three-year-old colt indicated Alsab would not be started in the handicap.

There were eight or nine possible starters against Whirlaway, but it was thought likely his opposition would be made up of Best Seller, Reading II, Rounders, Moscow 11, Daily Trouble, Staretor and Sirocco.

Whirly had his last workout yesterday, breezing the six furlongs in 1:14 and the mile in 1:43. He will carry the top impost of 130 pounds.

Beckwish Quits Ring For Post With Army

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 31—Booker Beckwith, 22-year-old Negro contender for the light heavyweight boxing title, put aside his gloves today for a fighting career with Uncle Sam.

Inducted into the army, the Gary, Ind., battler winds up a three-year professional campaign in which he lost only three of his 22 bouts. He recently was knocked out by Ezzard Charles and lost to Melio Bettina and Bob Pastor.

SHORT SPORTS

TALENT TO BURN

RANDOLPH FIELD — Aviation Cadet Earl W. Callaway of Berkeley, Calif., mixed the stage, radio and singing with boxing, football, fencing and basketball while a student at San Francisco Junior college and the University of California. Good enough to be captain of his fencing and basketball teams during his college career, he is now good enough to be in the next-to-last stage of his training for the wings of a flying officer in the Army Air Forces. From the "West Point of the Air" he will go to an advanced flying school in Texas.

END OF LINE

NEW YORK—It looks like the end of the road has been reached by Lou Nova, one of the strangest of the many strange people who walk down boxing's lonesome road in pursuit of fame and fortune and the adulation of the mob.

OWLS AIR-MINDED

PHILADELPHIA — Temple university's athletes are definitely air-minded.

Of the 126 sports veterans of the past five seasons now in the armed services, 2 are in the air forces of the army, navy and marines.

PRICES SLASHED

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Indiana university's 1942 football prices will permit all service men in uniform without an officer's commission to enter for 50 cents, it was announced by Director Zora G. Clevenger.

WHAT FIELDING!

Mickey Witek, the Giants' second baseman, went 23 games and handled 122 chances without an error up to the first inning of the June 17 game with the Cardinals. Then he made two consecutive miscues.

FRIENDLY RIVALS

Hoot Evers and Dick Wakefield, both with Beaumont, are rivals for the Texas league hitting honors this season. Evers, Illinois, and Wakefield, Michigan, are former Big Ten stars.

VOTES FOR MATE

Teammate Ernie Koy of the Phils is Pitcher Tommy Hughes' nominee for "Player of the Year". Koy drove in the winning run in each of Hughes' first three victories this season.

TAKES OVER

Fuzzy Sutherd, athletic director at Millkin, has found it necessary to take over the football coaching job. It has been a long time since he coached. So he is going to the Iowa summer school.

THEY'RE NOT ALONE

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Reds will be especially glad when hostilities in World War II cease, because it will mean the return to the fold of some of their most promising farmhands.

Marines Send Group Of Volunteers To War

Five Men Leave Today In Determined Mood, Over Pennsylvania

In the second of two military send-offs today and the fourth in two days, the Marine Corps cheered five new recruits on their way to battle. The smallness and seriousness of the Marine group made this departure a little more solemn and impressive than the larger draftee send-offs, it seemed. Mothers, sisters and sweethearts' tears stood out sharply but the determined smiles on the faces of their men overshadowed them.

The men who left this morning included William H. Houck, R. D. 1, New Castle; Zenon Lucyan Niekrasz, R. F. D. 6, New Castle; Charles W. Stewart, 1015 Croton avenue; Jacob D. Holzhouser, 832 Butler avenue, and George Mike Kush, 334 North Water street, Sharon.

The combination band under the leadership of Miss Christina Giancotti was on hand to give out with the stirring "Marines Hymn" and the Service Men's Aid association gave each of the volunteers a gift. Capt. Carl Andreason of the Salvation Army gave a brief prayer for success as the boys left.

The president of the Falcons, Stanley Maciejewski presided and during the evening presented Mr. Dudek with a service kit. Music and dancing took up the evening hours, with a lunch being served later in the evening.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

The last day of July . . . my how times does fly . . . Say, have you written any letters to the boys in the service lately. It's time to write, they are working hard preparing themselves for the fight for you . . . some have already gone to the lines of battle . . . keep the letters rolling folks . . . they depend on them.

* * *

Just received a card from William "Slug" Smith who is stationed at Parris Island . . . he says that all the boys from New Castle who are now there are in excellent health and spirits . . . Sankey, Weiss, Carr and Jackson join Smith in sending their regards to Johnny Dean . . . New Castle is behind you boys . . . keep a going.

Here is a little poem that was composed during the last blackout here in New Castle . . . it looks good to us and we thought that perhaps you would enjoy it too.

"Be still and know that I am God"
The silence said to me,
This busy world had run so fast
It had no time for Thee.
The silence brought Thy glory out
The stars, the moon, the trees;
The night lark as she flew on high
In wafted summer breeze.
The fireflies their light they threw
Like fairy flashlights, gay;
Showing us God all nature rules
And no man's law obeys.

"Be still and know that I am God"
We bow in reverence, Lord;
The young, the careless, old and sick
Thy mercy doth employ.
We thank Thee for this "blackout" hour
Where silence reigns supreme,
And where Thy power reaches out
Touching hearts, unseen.
We thank Thee for this "blackout" hour
Where we commune with Thee,
The hour that man had made for power
But brought us back to Thee.

—by F. W.

Taking care of that Victory Garden . . . weeds are growing very nicely . . . keep them, you will win . . . and the proof of the garden will be eating it this summer and next winter.

Corregidor Nurse And Flier With Doolittle Are Given Tribute

ELLWOOD CITY, July 31.—War being the foremost thought in all minds today, and, perhaps, particularly in industrial Ellwood City, where every mill and factory is engaged in the manufacture of material to aid in ending the greatest struggle of all times, in which hundreds of the town's finest young men are and preparing to fight today.

It was to be expected then that about three thousand residents gathered Thursday as a part of the Golden Jubilee celebration to get a close-up of war heroes.

The procession included the 31-piece 104th Cavalry band, a hit in Pittsburgh's recent war show; a mechanized unit comprising ten armored scout cars, six jeeps, and four 37 MM. anti-tank guns.

Corregidor Nurse Speaks

After a parade of the band and mechanized unit, the formal program was held at the high school football field. Outstanding in the program were talks by Ensign Anne E. Bernatitus, the only navy nurse to escape from Corregidor, and Lt. Thomas C. Griffin, who was one of Jimmy Doolittle's aces in the raid on Tokyo.

Presented by Lt. Commander, Leslie P. Jacobs, Miss Bernatitus said she was in Manila from December 24 to April 8 with the surgical unit, after which she was evacuated to Corregidor. She told about the braveness of the injured men who never complained, about the bombing of the hospital, although it was clearly marked with large Red Crosses; about the scarcity of supplies and the make-shift equipment; and about the food, which was fish and rice twice every day.

Men Courageous

Forty-eight hours before the surrender of Bataan, she was taken to Corregidor. Conditions at first were somewhat better and there was more food. The courage of the men there as the greatest thing, she said. She escaped from Corregidor the day before its fall on a submarine. While on the submarine they had to sleep in short shifts to permit everyone to have a chance. On the submarine, there were cards, a victrola, all kinds of books, and food, especially food, she emphasized.

The smiling blonde nurse said she could still eat food, any time, any place, any amount. She told her story simply and without any dramatics while the big audience listened in hushed silence.

Lt. Thomas C. Griffin, introduced by Lt. Colonel John S. Swauger, chief of the industrial division of the Pittsburgh ordnance department, told briefly of the bombing of Tokyo. Griffin said he joined the Far Eastern command after December 7. He told of the afternoon raid between 1 and 2 o'clock which took the Japs by complete surprise. At one place there was a ball game going on and the spectators waved to the flyers. The squadron flew in low over the tree tops to avoid the anti-aircraft guns, over their targets they raised to 1500 feet, then dropped to the roof tops and flew away, he said. No planes were shot down, he declared, but said that the Japs did shoot down five of their own barrage balloons.

Jacobs also spoke briefly on the need of America to return to the simpler way of life and to the principles upon which democracy was founded.

Swauger emphasized that the men who win the production battle are also heroes, although there is no glamour connected with it. He urged men to accept the longer hours and harder work that will be necessary to win the war without complaining.

Entertainment followed and included novelty comedy numbers by Robert Maurice, movie comedian, and a solo by Miss Ethelyne Holt, opera singer.

F. E. Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided. Edward Mackasek, industrial chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke for industry and Jack McKeown, S.W.O.C. organizer, for labor.

Seated on the platform along with the many army and navy representatives were the heads of the local industries.
